1 Definition

- As the abbreviation for 'Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation,' FEALAC is an inter-regional multilateral organization launched in 1999 with the aim to increase inter-regional cooperation and understanding between East Asia and Latin America.

2 Background & History

- The regions of East Asia and Latin America serve as the driving force behind the global economic growth in the 21st century but regardless, the cooperation between East Asia and Latin America seemed weak in comparison to that of other regional cooperation. The need thus became evident for a multi-lateral forum to increase bi-regional understanding, dialogue, and cooperation.
- During an official visit to Chile on September 1998, Singapore's Prime Minister Goh Chok Tong suggested to the then President of Chile, Eduardo Frei, ways to increase cooperation between East Asia and Latin America.
 - As a result, the 'East Asia - Latin America Forum (EALAF)' was officially launched at the first Senior Officials' Meeting in Singapore on September 1999.

- At the 1st Foreign Ministers' Meeting in Santiago, Chile, on March 29-30, 2001, member countries who have agreed to change the name of the Forum from EALAF to FEALAC adopted the 「Co-Chairs' Statement First Ministerial Meeting of the Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation」 and approved the "Framework Document" which states the Forum's objectives, direction, and range of cooperation.
- At the 2nd Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in January 2004 in Manila, Philippines, member countries adopted the "Manila Plan of Action" which includes detailed direction on how to increase bi-regional understanding and cooperation.
- At the 3rd Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in August 2007 in Brasilia, Brazil, member countries adopted the 「Brasilia Ministerial Declaration and Programme of Action」 which states the need for cooperation on global issues such as climate change and the "Doha Development Agenda", as well as strengthening cooperation within FEALAC in the areas of trade and investment and regional financial institutions.
- At the 4th Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in January 2010 in Tokyo, Japan, member countries adopted the 「Tokyo Declaration」 which evaluates FEALAC activities over the past decade, emphasizes the need for bi-regional cooperation in the face of global crisis, and agreed to Korea's establishment of the FEALAC Cyber Secretariat among other issues.
- At the 5th Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in Buenos Aires, Argentina, in August 2011, member countries adopted the 「Buenos Aires Declaration」 which includes reform of the global governance mechanism, plans to strengthen cooperation between FEALAC and regional economic and financial institutions such as ECLAC, IDB, ADB, ESCAP among others, and establishment of the Vision Group whose function is to provide FEALAC's mid to long-term goals and strategies for implementation.
- At the 6th Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in Bali, Indonesia, in June 2013, member countries adopted the 「Uluwatu Declaration」 which assented to the Vision Group recommendation which aims at evaluating FEALAC cooperation, and agreed to the necessity to enhance communication between FEALAC members through the utilization of the FEALAC Cyber Secretariat.
- At the 7th Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in San Jose, Costa Rica, in August 2015, under the title 'FEALAC 2015 : Two Regions, One Vision' member countries adopted the 「Declaration of San Jose」 which emphasized the need of a strategic alliance among FEALAC member countries, international organizations and financial institutions of both regions, and adopted the 'Guideline for FEALAC Working Process' to improve FEALAC work process and strengthen the Cyber Secretariat.

- At the 8th Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in Busan, Korea, in August 2017, under the slogan 'One Vision, New Action', member countries adopted the 'Busan Declaration' which endorsed "New FEALAC Action Plan", "FEALAC Troika Modalities", and "FEALAC Fund" among others to strengthen FEALAC process, and underscored the importance of FEALAC-wide projects to promote inter-regional dialogue and understanding.

3 Main Goals & Principles

A. Purpose

- The purpose of FEALAC is to promote better understanding, political dialogue and cooperation so as to achieve more effective and fruitful relations and closer cooperation between the two regions. It will avoid duplication with other existing forums. It shall take a multidisciplinary approach and could involve both public and private sectors.

B. Objective

- The key objectives of FEALAC:
 - To increase mutual understanding, trust, political dialogue and friendly cooperation among member states with a view to enriching and sharing experiences and developing new partnerships
 - To tap the potential of multidisciplinary cooperation, inter alia, in economics, trade, investment, finance, science and technology, environment protection, culture, sport, tourism and people-to-people exchanges
 - To expand common ground on important international political and economic issues with a view to working together in different international fora in order to safeguard our common interests

C. Main Principle and Decision Making Process

- FEALAC should be forward looking and future oriented. It will be voluntary, informal and flexible in its working procedures. It will conduct itself in accordance with basic principle of international law, in particular:
 - Respect for each other's sovereignty and territorial integrity;
 - Non-interference in each other's internal affairs;
 - Equality, mutual benefit and the common goals of development;
 - Respect for each other's unique cultures and social values; and
 - Decision-making by consensus

5 Mechanism

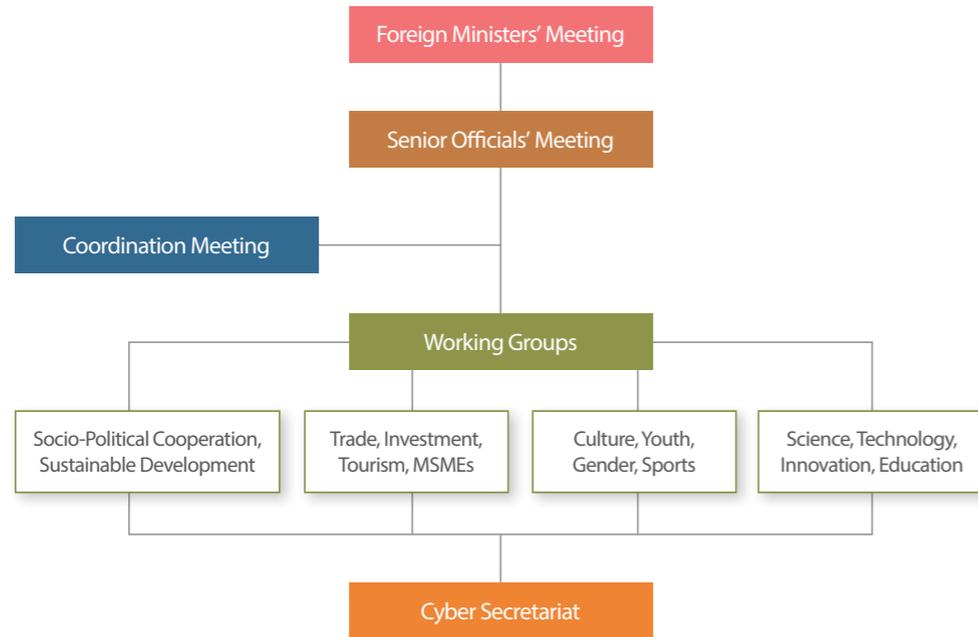

A. Participation

- The Forum comprises sovereign states participating in their individual national capacities. Membership of the forum is open to all sovereign states committed to promoting better relations and linkages between East Asia and Latin America. New members shall be admitted on basis of consensus.
- The Forum's activities and projects are limited to its members. Other sovereign states as well as international and regional organizations may participate in specific projects and activities on the basis of consensus among members.

B. Basic Organization

- FEALAC meetings consist of Foreign Ministers' Meetings (FMM), Senior Officials' Meetings (SOM), Working Group Meetings, and Coordination Meetings.
 - * The Coordination Meeting was launched at the 7th FMM (August 2015) to strengthen the role of the Regional Coordinators and improve FEALAC's communication mechanism (substituting the Coordinating Board); it serves as a coordinator of the 4 Working Groups and reviews follow-up measures of decisions adopted at the FMM and SOM.
- The Cyber Secretariat was created at the 4th FMM (2010.1.16-17) with the member countries' adoption of the 「Tokyo Declaration」.
- For the effective management of FEALAC, member countries select one Regional Coordinator from each region by consensus to carry out various roles in relation to FEALAC activities .

Image 2 FEALAC Organizational Chart

C. Regional Coordinators' Main Responsibilities

- Serve as contact points for all FEALAC matters and gather opinions of member Countries
- Mediate opinions unofficially for effective execution and continuity of FEALAC activities
- Facilitate decision-making and consensus-making process to steer FEALAC towards a shared path
- Organize formal meetings and review follow-up of decisions adopted at the FMM and SOM
- Number FEALAC official documents and supervise its overall management

※ History of Regional Coordinators

(1) 1st Regional Coordinator (1999.9.3 - 2001.3.30)

- East Asia : Singapore, Latin America : Chile
- * Singapore and Chile both founded FEALAC

(9) 9th Regional Coordinator (2017.8.31 – Present)

- East Asia : Lao PDR, Latin America : Guatemala (Appointed as Interim Regional Coordinator)

D. Modalities

- Regular meetings of Foreign Ministers are envisaged and could be held approximately every two years. The possible participation of Economic or other Ministers and the possibility of having a Summit of Leaders can be discussed by the Foreign Ministers.
- The agenda of the Foreign Ministers' Meeting should be relevant to the concerns of both regions and decided by consensus. Senior Officials' Meetings (SOM) should be held to prepare for the Foreign Ministers' Meetings. SOMs should be held at least once a year, as well as back to back with Foreign Ministers' Meetings. The Ministries of Foreign Affairs of member countries shall be the focal points for the Forum.
- The venue of meetings should be alternate between the two regions and be decided on the basis of consensus.
- The Forum shall endeavour to make progress incrementally, always seeking common ground and putting aside differences in order to foster understanding and cooperation, and moving at a pace comfortable to all its members.

E. Projects

- To enhance substantive cooperation between East Asia and Latin America, participating countries are encouraged to submit specific projects with interregional scope. For the purposes of this Forum, a project is an initiative aimed at raising awareness and fostering better understanding between East Asia and Latin America that one or more countries pledge to implement within a certain period of time. At the initial stage, projects should be modest in scope and in their numbers.
- Initiators of projects should be responsible for securing funding. Implementation of projects should be voluntary. Projects should be mutually beneficial and contribute towards advancing, the overall objectives of the Forum.

6 FEALAC Cyber Secretariat

CO-CHAIRS' STATEMENT FIRST MINISTERIAL MEETING OF THE FORUM FOR EAST ASIA-LATIN AMERICA COOPERATION

SANTIAGO, CHILE(2001.3.29-30)

1. The Inaugural Ministerial Meeting of the Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation was held in Santiago, Chile on 29 and 30 March 2001. The Meeting was co-chaired by Mrs Maria Soledad Alvear, Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Chile and Professor S Jayakumar, Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Singapore.
2. The Meeting was attended by the Foreign Ministers and heads of delegations of Argentina, Australia, Bolivia, Brazil, Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Ecuador, El Salvador, Indonesia, Japan, Korea, Laos, Malaysia, Mexico, Myanmar, New Zealand, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, Uruguay, Venezuela and Viet Nam.

Appellation

3. The Ministers agreed that the official name of the Forum will be "Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation".

Adoption of the Framework Document

4. The Ministers approved the Framework Document which appears at Annex A.
5. The Framework Document could be reviewed and amended by consensus if necessary.

New Members

6. The Ministers agreed by acclamation to the admission of Costa Rica, Cuba and El Salvador as new members of the Forum. The representatives from these three countries then joined the meeting.

Review of National Projects

7. The Ministers were briefed by the Co-Chair of the Senior Officials' Meeting on their deliberations on the status of current and new national projects. The Ministers were of the view that the national projects dealt with substantive issues and fostered better understanding and cooperation between the two regions and encouraged the submission of new projects.
8. The Ministers noted that the increasing number of national projects, while demonstrating the interest and commitment of members to the Forum, had also led to some overlap. They instructed the Senior Officials to consider how the Forum could better coordinate, harmonise and synergise national projects in order to reap maximum benefits from them.
9. The Ministers also agreed that while national projects were of continued importance, they should be complemented by the establishment of Forum-wide projects.

Presentation by IDB and ECLAC

10. The Ministers expressed their appreciation for the presentations during their lunch on 29 March 2001 by Mr. Julio Angel Mejias, representative of the Inter-Development Bank (IDB) in Chile, and Mr Jose Antonio Ocampo, Executive Secretary of the Economic Commission of Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC). The presentations provided many useful insights into the current status of relations between East Asia and Latin America.

Regional Developments and Cooperation

11. The Ministers had a rich and multi-faceted exchange of views on the opportunities and challenges of globalisation covering, inter alia, political, economic, social, educational, environmental and science and technology issues. They agreed that this exchange of views had fostered better mutual understanding and provided them with a deeper appreciation of the potential of dialogue and cooperation between East Asia and Latin America.

12. Their discussions focussed, inter alia, on the following broad themes :
 - a) An exchange of experiences and views on the positive and negative aspects of globalisation;
 - b) An exchange of views on the respective experiences of the two regions on regional integration;
 - c) The sharing of experiences of member states from both East Asia and Latin America on their political and economic transitions; and
 - d) The impact of globalisation on international relations and on several regional and international issues.
13. In this connection, the Ministers welcomed the ongoing progress in South-North Korean relations following the inter-Korean Summit held in Pyongyang in June 2000. They hoped that the momentum would continue with the strengthening of the inter-Korean dialogues, consolidating the reconciliation and cooperation between the two Koreas that would also contribute to the stability of East Asia and beyond.
14. To meet the challenges and seize the opportunities of globalisation, the Ministers also discussed specific ways in which the Forum could explore specific Forum-wide projects to respond to common issues.
15. These included, but were not limited to, the following:
 - a) Assistance to small and medium enterprises;
 - b) People-to-people contacts of various kinds;
 - c) Academic and student exchanges;
 - d) Human resource development and capacity building;
 - e) Trade and Investment promotion;
 - f) Air and sea transportation links;
 - g) Webpages and other modalities for sharing information;
 - h) Responses to the call for a New Round;
 - i) Environmental issues;
 - j) Mapping and maximising complementarities between the two regions;
 - k) Responding to the challenges and opportunities of Information Technology; and
 - l) Cultural exchanges of various kinds

Future Direction of the Forum

16. The Ministers agreed that the First Ministerial Meeting of the Forum for East Asia and Latin America Cooperation marked a new chapter in relations between the two regions.
17. To sustain the momentum generated by the Meeting and to concretize the cooperation between the two regions, the Ministers decided to establish three open-ended Working Groups with the aim of strengthening dialogue and cooperation in the following fields:
 - a) Political/cultural cooperation;
 - b) Economic/social cooperation; and
 - c) Education/science and technology cooperation.
18. The Ministers directed that the Working Groups would have the following broad Terms of Reference:
 - a) Elaborate detailed frameworks for cooperation between the two regions in line with the rationale, purposes, objectives and principles of the Forum as set out in the Framework Document in order to make recommendations on a few practical, Forum-wide projects;
 - b) In doing so, and as agreed during the earlier discussions on national projects as described in paragraphs 7-9 above in this Co-Chairs' Statement, the Working Groups should, where appropriate, endeavour to coordinate and harmonize existing national projects and explore potential synergies between national projects and proposed Forum-wide projects in order to identify national projects which could be harmonised with, or incorporated into, possible Forum-wide projects; and
 - c) The working Groups should also examine suggestions made by member states in order to prioritise them and avoid duplication with the existing work of other regional and international forums, groups and institutions.
19. The Ministers agreed that Chile and Singapore would co-chair the Working Group on political/cultural cooperation; Japan and Peru would co-chair the Working Group on economic/social cooperation; and Australia and Costa Rica would co-chair the Working Group on education/science and technology cooperation.
20. The Ministers agreed that the Working Groups should not be confined to government officials, but could also decide by consensus to include the private sector, the academia and other relevant, non-governmental organisations as well as regional and international organisations, whenever appropriate.

21. The Ministers instructed the Working Groups to begin their work as soon as possible in order to provide preliminary reports to the next Senior Officials' Meeting in Colombia in 2002. The Minister further instructed the Senior Officials to review the preliminary reports of the Working Groups in order to refine their Terms of Reference and provide further guidance to them. The Working Groups should present their conclusions to the Senior Officials' Meeting that would be held prior to the next Ministerial Meeting scheduled to held in the Philippines in 2003. The Senior Officials would then consider the Working Groups' conclusions with a view to presenting recommendations to the Ministerial Meeting.

Conclusion

22. The new Co-Coordinator, Philippines and Colombia, delivered closing statements.
23. The Ministers welcomed the next Co-Coordinator, Philippines and Colombia, and reaffirmed that the next SOM would be hosted by Colombia in 2002 and the next Ministerial Meeting would be held in the Philippines in 2003.
24. The Ministers expressed their appreciation to the out-going Co-Chairs of the Forum, Chile and Singapore.
25. The Ministers also expressed their appreciation to the government of Chile for the excellent arrangements and warm hospitality accorded to all delegations.

Annex A : Framework for a Forum for Dialogue and Cooperation between East Asia and Latin America.

FRAMEWORK FOR A FORUM FOR DIALOGUE AND COOPERATION BETWEEN EAST ASIA AND LATIN AMERICA

FEALAC I Foreign Ministers' Meeting (1st FMM : 2001.3.29-30)

1. Global interdependence is a reality that cannot be ignored. But the global market is highly uneven in its effects and does not in itself create international cohesion. The dichotomy between the economic and political dimensions of global interdependence should be addressed. A sense of global cohesiveness and of the inter-connections between regions must be encouraged as a means to ensure that interdependence benefits all and that international peace and stability are preserved.

Rationale

2. Technology has mitigated the effects of geographic distance between East Asia and Latin America and created the opportunity to realise the full potential of closer interactions between these regions. East Asia and Latin America are comprised of mainly developing countries who share many similar concerns and problems. East Asia and Latin America are economically dynamic and are complementary to each other. The Forum will address common issues and problems and explore new avenues for cooperation. There is great scope for political, social, cultural, academic, economic and other kinds of cooperation. Closer linkages and cooperation between East Asia and Latin America will be mutually beneficial and contribute to both regional and international peace and stability.

Purpose

3. The purpose of the Forum is to promote better understanding, political and economic dialogue and cooperation in all areas so as to achieve more effective and fruitful relations and closer cooperation between the two regions. It will avoid duplication with other existing forums. It shall take a multidisciplinary approach and could involve both the public and private sectors.

Objective

4. The key objectives of the Forum are:
 - To increase mutual understanding, trust, political dialogue and friendly cooperation among member states with a view to enriching and sharing experiences and developing new partnerships.
 - To tap the potential of multidisciplinary cooperation, inter alia, in economics, trade investment, finance, science and technology, environment protection, culture, sport, and people-to-people exchanges.
 - To expand common ground on important international political and economic issues with a view to working together in different international fora in order to safeguard our common interests.

Principles

5. The Forum should be forward looking and future oriented. It will be voluntary, informal and flexible in its working procedures. It will conduct itself in accordance with basic principles of international law, in particular:
 - Respect for each other's sovereignty and territorial integrity;
 - Non-interference in each other's internal affairs;
 - Equality, mutual benefit and the common goal of development;
 - Respect for each other's unique cultures and social values; and
 - Decision-making by consensus.

Participation

6. The Forum comprises sovereign states participating in their individual national capacities. Membership of the forum is open to all sovereign states committed to promoting better relations and linkages between East Asia and Latin America. New members shall be admitted on basis of consensus.
7. The Forum's activities and projects are limited to its members. Other sovereign states as well as international and regional organizations may participate in specific projects and activities on the basis of consensus among members.

Modalities

8. Regular meetings of Foreign Ministers are envisaged and could be held approximately every two years. The possible participation of Economic or other Ministers and the possibility of having a Summit of Leaders can be discussed by the Foreign Ministers.

9. The agenda of the Foreign Ministers' Meeting should be relevant to the concerns of both regions and decided by consensus. Senior Officials Meetings (SOM) should be held to prepare for the Foreign Ministers' Meetings. SOMs should be held at least once a year, as well as back to back with Foreign Ministers' Meetings. The Ministries of Foreign Affairs of member countries shall be the focal points for the Forum.
10. Two Coordinators, one from each region, will be appointed to provide focal points of contact in between formal meetings of officials and Ministers. The appointments shall be on the basis of consensus within their respective regions. To ensure continuity and greater partnership, two Deputy Coordinators, who will be the future Coordinators will also be appointed. These will assume as Coordinators at the end of the Ministerial Meetings.
11. The venue of meetings should be alternate between the two regions and be decided on the basis of consensus.
12. The Forum shall endeavour to make progress incrementally, always seeking common ground and putting aside differences in order to foster understanding and cooperation, and moving at a pace comfortable to all its members.

Projects

13. To enhance substantive cooperation between East Asia and Latin America, participating countries are encouraged to submit specific projects with interregional scope. For the purposes of this Forum, a project is an initiative aimed at raising awareness and fostering better understanding between East Asia and Latin America that one or more countries pledge to implement within a certain period of time. At the initial stage, projects should be modest in scope and in their numbers.
14. Initiators of projects should be responsible for securing funding. Implementation of projects should be voluntary. Projects should be mutually beneficial and contribute towards advancing, the overall objectives of the Forum.

MANILA PLAN OF ACTION TO FURTHER ENHANCE COOPERATION BETWEEN EAST ASIA AND LATIN AMERICA

FEALAC II Foreign Ministers' Meeting (2nd FMM : 2004.1.30-31)

1. We, the Foreign Ministers of the thirty-two member countries of the Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation (FEALAC) met in Manila, Philippines, on 30 and 31 January 2004 to deepen and broaden the links between our two regions. In this context, we welcomed the admission of Guatemala and Nicaragua as new members of the Forum.
2. Our meetings were conducted in a transparent and constructive atmosphere and were built upon the work begun at the First FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting (FMM I), held in Santiago, Chile on 29-30 March 2001.
3. We noted the Forum's progress with satisfaction and recognized that it has accomplished much despite being a relatively new intergovernmental entity. FEALAC continues to demonstrate its value through the advancement of important inter-regional projects in various fields. This has shown that the Forum has a valuable complementary role in the international system.
4. We reiterated our commitment to abide by the Framework Document as FEALAC's guiding beacon. We resolved at this meeting in Manila that we will set a more focused direction for the Forum that will make full use of the momentum generated since the FMM I.
5. We reiterated that enhanced economic and cultural links would lead to closer and deeper political ties. We enjoined our officials responsible for the Forum to ensure that FEALAC stays true to this path. The FMM I gave the Forum its foundation. The forthcoming biennium will be a critical period of consolidation that will give FEALAC its determining character. Therefore, now is the time to move to a more substantive direction.

6. We recognized that FEALAC can help in promoting peace and strengthening multilateral cooperation in all fields in today's international environment. We appreciated the importance of building on our achievements and seizing opportunities to make FEALAC more agile and responsive to the changing international environment.
7. We acknowledged that FEALAC plays a valuable part in bringing together countries from two very diverse regions for dialogue and cooperation. We agreed that better understanding among FEALAC member countries on matters of mutual interest could be useful in addressing issues in the relevant multilateral fora, particularly in forging better cooperation where our views converge.
8. We agreed that while FEALAC plays an important complementary role to activities in other fora, it should not duplicate existing efforts. We recognized that FEALAC has an important role in adding value through its inter-regional, consensus-based approach.
9. We acknowledged that the three Working Groups established at the FMM I developed many useful projects. The Working Groups brought the two regions closer through more frequent contacts among individuals from the member countries. We attached particular importance to those projects that promote a greater understanding between the two regions, including through greater information dissemination and people-to-people contact through, among others, modern information technologies. There is a need for further dialogue and cultural exchange among the Forum's members in order to better appreciate and understand their respective cultures and ways of life.

Enhancing Economic Ties to Further Economic Development and Creating Opportunities to Overcome Poverty

10. We noted the important roles of stability and security in promoting economic development and agreed that they should be enhanced through strengthening the role of the United Nations in the maintenance of international peace and security as well as cooperation at the national, regional and global levels, while respecting the sovereignty of nations, to allow development to take place at a sustained and sustainable pace.
11. We reaffirmed that one of the cornerstones of FEALAC's foundation is to enhance economic ties and expand cooperation between the two regions, including through South-South Cooperation. We recalled the important roles of the business and academic sectors in socio-economic development, and the part that trade and investments should play in promoting the prosperity of our populations, taking into account the challenges presented by today's global economy.

12. We reiterated that one of FEALAC's priorities is overcoming poverty and providing equal opportunities including by promoting among our people, particularly among the disadvantaged and marginalized, including women and youth, a world view that embraces entrepreneurship and the right to a better life, thus contributing to socio-economic advancement. We can achieve this through the economic empowerment of our populations and the enhancement of social justice. We expressed our determination to strengthen national efforts and work together towards ensuring that the positive effects of globalization are enjoyed more broadly and equitably and that its negative effects will not contribute to the marginalization of any sectors of human society, particularly those in developing countries including landlocked developing countries and the less developed countries.
13. We recognized that education is one of the best means of empowering our people and promoting sustainable development. In this regard, we noted the importance of embarking on projects complementary to the United Nations Decade of Education for Sustainable Development, which will begin in 2005.
14. We recognized that most FEALAC member countries face the challenge of developing at a fast enough pace while safeguarding the environment. We recognized the importance of allocating the necessary resources to accomplish this, including through the promotion of employment and social services, including health and education for all. We reiterated the importance of accomplishing the internationally agreed development goals including the Millennium Development Goals, the actions set forth in the Monterrey Consensus, and the outcome of the World Summit on Sustainable Development. We expressed the need for work to continue urgently to ensure that the results of the Doha Development Round will contribute to a fairer and more equitable international trading system, bringing gains for all economies, particularly developing countries, via agricultural reform, improved market access for goods and services, and clarification and improvement of trade disciplines. We also expressed our support for the abolition of all forms of agricultural export subsidies in accordance with the Doha mandate.

15. We entrusted the SOM to coordinate the efforts of the working groups so that FEALAC may better contribute to fostering economic opportunities among FEALAC member countries, and encouraged the sharing of lessons learned and Best Practices. The SOM should ensure that the Working Groups undertake relevant projects in this regard, putting special attention on those projects that have a direct impact on our communities.
 - a. We encouraged efforts to strengthen trade and investment cooperation in FEALAC with particular attention given to the development of micro, small and medium enterprises as well as projects and fora that further build their capacity including through the strengthening of entrepreneurship and human resources.
 - b. We noted the need for a public-business sector partnership in FEALAC to promote socio-economic development and create opportunities to help overcome poverty and facilitate individual and social progress. We called for an increasing role of the various economic agencies in our respective countries to better interface between FEALAC's public, business, and academic sectors. There is a need to promote exchanges of Best Practices to, among others, enhance governmental infrastructure to combat corruption, minimize red tape in bureaucracy, and strengthen the enabling environment for business and sustainable socio economic development. We encourage the participation of the FEALAC member countries in trade promotion programs offered by the International Trade Center (ITC), which is jointly sponsored by the World Trade Organization and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. Furthermore the establishment, therefore, of a FEALAC Business Council and a FEALAC Academic Exchange Program could be considered as important means to strengthen partnerships between the two regions.
 - c. We recognized that the provision of economic opportunities must be combined with a climate favorable to development. We noted the role of the international financial institutions in development and considered it imperative to foster important reforms in the international financial architecture to enhance their participation in developing countries' efforts to eradicate poverty and promote economic and social progress and alleviate the problem of external debt affecting many countries. We further recognized the contributions of multilateral specialized agencies and programs. We also recognized the contributions of regional financial institutions, such as the Asian Development Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank, in promoting bi-regional exchanges. We encouraged them to improve their efforts to uplift the poor and underprivileged, and to make East Asia-Latin America Cooperation a priority area.

- d. We viewed the economic role of technology, especially information and communications technology, as an important engine of development. FEALAC should promote more exchanges and other technology transfers as well as collaborative research, while improving communications at all levels of the Forum to translate into better business opportunities. We encouraged activities that contribute to bridging the growing digital divide, particularly among and within FEALAC member countries including initiatives set forth in the Program of Action at the World Summit on the Information Society. Attention should also be placed on the exchange of best practices in the fields of environmental, agricultural and health technology.
- e. We acknowledged that it would be useful for FEALAC member countries to share experiences and Best Practices in promoting, among others, urban renewal, urban planning, land-use planning and infrastructure development and urban transport, mass housing and waste management, as well as rural development concerns.

Securing the Future

16. We noted that, while increased interdependence between nations has brought about certain advantages, including accelerated communications and economic interaction, it has also increased the vulnerability of countries and individuals to transnational threats. We believe that enhancing security for the well being of all people contributes positively to global sustainable development. It is therefore necessary to renew our commitment to combat crime, terrorism, and other transnational threats, including by understanding their root causes.
17. We acknowledged as important the need to mitigate against threats to human lives while realizing the full potential and security of each individual and state. In this context, a holistic approach that takes into account challenges such as environmental degradation, natural disasters, extreme poverty and hunger, illicit drugs, infectious diseases, human trafficking, transnational crime and terrorism, must be elaborated to secure the future of our people. Recognizing that it remains the principal responsibility of the state to promote the well being of its citizens, we highlighted the importance of enabling our populations to confront these tests as united societies.

18. We entrusted the SOM to coordinate the efforts of the Working Groups so that FEALAC may better contribute in addressing challenges to our security in an integrated and efficient manner.
 - a. We emphasized that the dialogue on matters affecting security should be broadened and deepened and relevant projects, including those to promote interfaith and inter-cultural understanding, be undertaken at the appropriate time. These efforts could include a program of interfaith dialogue so as to minimize religious prejudices, including as a result of the fight against terrorism.
 - b. We recognized the importance of cooperation between the two regions on disaster reduction, mitigation, relief and rehabilitation, and the strengthening of our efforts including in the various fora of the United Nations, and as part of the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction. The SOM should therefore promote projects in this regard in the appropriate Working Groups with emphasis on projects related to early warning for natural and epidemic emergencies.

Strengthening FEALAC to Further Inter-Regional Dialogue

19. We agreed on the following to enhance our on-going inter-regional dialogue:
 - a. We authorized the Senior Officials to establish an ad referendum mechanism to secure the imprimatur of the Foreign Ministers once they have already reached consensus on procedural and administrative matters. Such a mechanism shall be used only if and when necessary. This is to ensure that decisions can be finalized with a minimum of delay while maintaining consensus-based decision-making in the Forum.
 - b. We agreed that sub-regional and inter-regional contacts at the official and unofficial levels, including the business and academic sectors, as well as the exchange of youth and cultural troupes, should continue to be enriched and that these interactions should serve to reinforce the intergovernmental nature of the Forum.

- c. We instructed the SOM to avoid duplication of efforts and to evaluate projects, inter alia, with regard to their effectivity in the accomplishment of their respective goals; in furthering FEALAC's objectives; and in involving a significant number of member countries. We recognized that existing projects have contributed to accomplishing these objectives.
 - d. We agreed that while it is preferable for Co-Chairs and Regional Coordinators to host FEALAC meetings, and that they should be the choice of first instance, a greater degree of flexibility could be exercised in selecting hosts for meetings. Such a selection should be on the basis of consensus.
20. We agreed to meet again at the level of Foreign Ministers when appropriate, at a venue to be decided upon on the basis of consensus.
 21. We expressed our appreciation to the out-going coordinators of the Forum, the Philippines and Colombia. We welcomed the new Regional Coordinators, Brazil and the Republic of Korea. We also expressed our appreciation to the Government of the Philippines for the excellent arrangements and warm hospitality accorded to all delegations.

BRASILIA MINISTERIAL DECLARATION AND PROGRAMME OF ACTION

FEALAC III Foreign Ministers' Meeting (3rd FMM : 2007.8.22-23)

1. We, the Foreign Ministers of member countries of the Forum for East Asia and Latin America Co-operation (FEALAC), met in Brasilia, on the 22nd and 23rd of August, 2007, to strengthen the links between our regions, broaden the areas of our co-operation and enlarge the membership. In this context, we welcomed the admission of the Dominican Republic as a new member of the Forum.
2. Recalling the outcome of the I Foreign Ministers Meeting, held in Santiago, in 2001, when the foundations of FEALAC were established, and of the II Foreign Ministers Meeting, held in Manila, in 2004, which resulted in the Manila Plan of Action, we have unanimously adopted this Brasilia Ministerial Declaration, reaffirming the objectives and purposes of the Forum and building upon existing accomplishments, with a view to further enhancing our bi-regional cooperation.
3. In the course of two days of active and friendly discussions, we have reached basic consensus on various points, which will serve as further guidelines for future joint and co-operative actions.
4. We noted, with concern, the continuous growth of challenges present at the time of the last FEALAC Foreign Ministers Meeting (FMM), such as the widening income gap between developed and developing countries, the increasing poverty and hunger, the difficulties faced by many countries to meet their energy requirements adequately; the threats to the environment including climate changes, the loss of biodiversity and the unsustainable patterns of consumption and production, and their adverse effects to sustainable development; the difficulties faced by many communities to meet their basic needs and to provide the new generations with education and health services; the increasing threats of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and their means of delivery, the persisting phenomena of terrorism, as well as the increase of illicit drug trafficking and other trans-national organized crime, and the ominous threat of new pandemics as well as the existing limits to get the sufficient financial means to resist this deterioration.

5. Aware that the world drug problem represents a threat to the security of our citizens, and recognizing that drug abuse is a public health problem that affects society as a whole, we attach great importance to prevention, treatment and rehabilitation of drug abusers as an essential part of national health care systems. Conscious also of the need for continued progress in the fight against the production and trafficking of illicit drugs, and frequently related crimes, such as laundering of assets, illicit arms and weapons trafficking, and the illicit diversion of pharmaceutical products and chemical substances, we acknowledged the value of strengthened international co-operation towards combating transnational organized crime in all its forms, particularly the illicit drug trafficking, based on the principle of shared responsibility between producing and consuming countries, and within the framework of respective domestic legislation and international conventions on the matter. We also recognized the importance of fighting against trafficking and smuggling of persons.
6. We recognized the importance of looking into the phenomenon of international migration in an integrated manner.
7. At the same time, we noted that scientific progress achieved in new areas, such as nanotechnology, biotechnology, information technology, the space technology and new and renewable sources of energy is very promising, and should, as much as possible, be shared world-wide. Therefore, we pledged to respond to those challenges identified in this renewed initiatives.
8. Reiterating our commitment to strengthening the multilateral climate change regime, we recall the provisions of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, including the acknowledgement that the global nature of climate change calls for the widest possible cooperation by all countries and their participation in an effective and appropriate international response, coordinated with social and economic development in an integrated manner, and in accordance with their common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities and their social and economic conditions. We look forward to measures to address climate change within the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change and to the thirteenth session of the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Convention on Climate Change and the third session of the Meeting of the Parties to the Kyoto Protocol, to be held in Bali, Indonesia, in December, 2007. We also look forward to the UN Secretary-General's high-level event, which is to take place in New York on 24 September 2007.

9. We highly appreciated the works of the three FEALAC Working Groups and determined to promote co-operation in the specific areas of priorities which those Working Groups identified as core programs in FEALAC activities: "Academic Exchange", "Exchange of Expertise of Addressing Narcotics, Drugs and Illicit Drug Trafficking" and "Parliamentarians, journalists and Young Leaders Exchange" for the Political Cultural and Education Working Group; "Sustainable Development, especially Clean Development Mechanism(CDM)", "Utilization of Information and Communication Technology (ICT)", "Promotion of Small Medium Enterprises(SMEs)", and "Poverty Reduction" for the Economy and Society Working Group; as well as "Renewable Energy", "Natural Disaster Management" and "Epidemic Diseases" for the Science and Technology Working Group.
10. We expressed our concern that progress towards the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals, including the United Nations Millennium Development Goals, remains slow and uneven. In that regard, we shared the view that urgent actions by each country and the international community are imperative to meet the needs of the world's poorest, of the middle income countries that still need the support of the international cooperation to overcome the remaining areas of poverty still left and to foster sustainable development in all of them. We reiterate the importance of the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals until 2015. We recognised the value of developing innovative financial mechanisms on a voluntary basis and other financial mechanisms as meaningful complementation of the Official Development Aid (ODA). In this context, we encouraged interested countries to explore projects, actions and innovative financial mechanisms.
11. We reaffirmed the objectives of upholding and safeguarding an open and non-discriminatory multilateral trading system, as expressed in the Doha Ministerial Declaration. We shared the intention to co-operate to bring the Doha Round negotiations of the WTO to a satisfactory term, pursuant to the Ministerial Declaration of November 2001 on the Doha Development

Agenda, which explicitly recognizes the need for all our peoples to benefit from the increased opportunities and welfare gains that the multilateral trade system generates. We expressed our full support for the timely, balanced and successful conclusion of the Doha Round.

12. In the current complex and multifaceted world order, no single country, or group of countries, would be able to tackle alone the interconnected threats facing the international community. Therefore, there must be broad, deep and sustained multilateral cooperation among States, including stronger co-operation among States from different regions. One of the ways could be fostering the triangular cooperation.
13. We reaffirm our strong belief in multilateralism with the United Nations at its center. We emphasized the need for a comprehensive reform of the United Nations, to make it more effective, accountable, efficient and transparent, and shared the intention to co-ordinate the efforts of our delegations in New York in this matter. In this regard, we reaffirmed our commitment to the Resolution adopted by the General Assembly in October 2005 (A/RES/60/1-2005 World Summit outcome) that called for the strengthening of the General Assembly, the revitalization of the Economic and Social Council, the advancement of the Peacebuilding Commission and “early reform of the Security Council - an essential element of our overall effort to reform the United Nations - in order to make it more broadly representative, efficient and transparent and thus to further enhance its effectiveness and the legitimacy and implementation of its decisions”.
14. We recalled that both regions uphold the importance of a democratic international order, based on among others respect for the principles of the International Law and the Charter of the United Nations, national sovereignty, mutual benefits, upholding of human rights, promotion of sustainable development and strengthening of multilateralism.
15. We pledged to continue fostering mutual understanding and respect, trust and dialogue, in order to explore fully the potential for cooperation and increase convergence and commitment, with the purpose of working together in different international fora towards safeguarding our common interests.
16. We acknowledged that FEALAC plays a valuable part in bringing together countries from two very diverse regions for dialogue and cooperation. In this sense, we reaffirmed our interest to engage in joint projects, with a view to fostering mutual knowledge between the two regions and bearing tangible fruits for our populations. We recognised that better understanding among FEALAC member countries on matters of mutual interest could be useful in addressing issues in the relevant multilateral fora, particularly in forging better co-ordination where our views converge. We recognised that while FEALAC plays an important complementary role to activities in other fora, it should avoid duplication of existing efforts.

17. In this context we welcomed the Alliance of Civilizations initiative launched by the UN Secretary-General to build bridges between societies, to promote dialogue and understanding and to forge the collective political will to address the world’s imbalances, and commended the Report of its High Level Group which included representatives from both regions.
18. We noted with appreciation that the relationship between East Asia and Latin America has evolved from one marked by political approximation to one that includes a growing dimension of economic, technological and cultural approximation.
19. We decided to confer high priority to trade and investment co-operation in FEALAC, as an important means to promote development, prosperity and social inclusiveness for our populations as well as a way to promote an even more meaningful and substantive relationship between our regions.
20. We reaffirmed the particular importance of the development of micro, small and medium enterprises continuing with initiatives, projects and fora aimed at building their capacity, including by strengthening entrepreneurship and developing human resources, as well as by providing trade promotion.
21. We reaffirmed the need to raise awareness about FEALAC among civil society and population in member states, to promote the visibility of FEALAC and to encourage involvement of all different areas of the national administration.
22. We decided that, upon selection of priority projects for cooperation, we will give particular attention to those which encompass a large number of members and reconcile the goals of fostering a knowledge-based economy, promoting inclusive and sustainable development and alleviating poverty.
23. We expressed our determination to strengthen national efforts and work together towards ensuring that the positive effects of globalization are enjoyed more broadly and equitably and that its negative effects will not contribute to the marginalization of any sectors of human society, particularly those in developing countries including landlocked developing countries, small island developing states and the least developed countries.

24. We recognized the importance of deeper involvement of economic, educational, Science and Technology, social, cultural and other sectors of member countries into the process, and we pledged that the projects being carried out by the working groups should reflect that understanding.
25. We recognized the importance of positive contributions of international and regional financial institutions to promoting bi-regional exchanges, such as Latin America/Caribbean and Asia-Pacific Economic and Business Association(LAEBBA) initiative co-ordinated by the Asian Development Bank(ADB) and Inter-American Development Bank(IDB). We encouraged those international and regional financial institutions to play greater roles and enhance collaborations for FEALAC projects. We also welcomed and encouraged the collaboration between the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) and the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific(ESCAP) to further promote and develop bi-regional projects which would strengthen the relations between two regions. We expressed our wish that those two commissions would also play roles as permanent think tanks for FEALAC.
26. Based, inter alia, on the above points, we resolved to direct and support the following course of initiatives for FEALAC :
 - Senior officials should evaluate regularly the initiatives presented in the context of the Working Groups on Politics, Culture and Education, Economy and Society, Science, and Technology. The Working Groups are encouraged to conceive and perform concrete actions with a gradual and realistic approach, in order to enhance co-operation in such areas;
 - Share experience in combating trans-national organised crimes, among others; illicit narcotics and drug trafficking, and terrorism;
 - Assist trade promotion events, such as fairs, expositions, business, seminars and conferences, among other initiatives, in countries of both regions. Such initiatives should be aimed at allowing businessmen and business enterprises to share expertise and experience and explore mutually beneficial business opportunities;

- Share information on common projects and activities on a regular basis, including through web-sites. In this regard, the FEALAC member countries accept with appreciation the generous offer of the Republic of Korea to develop and maintain the common official FEALAC's internet site and encourage the Government of the Republic of Korea to open the web-site as soon as possible;
 - Organise cultural events showcasing unique aspects of each country;
 - Co-operate in the areas of rural development, credit and insurance to household farmers and cooperatives;
 - Organise exchange programmes for students and scholars of both regions to increase linkages among academic institutions of the two regions;
 - Share expertise and promote co-operative ventures pertaining to water treatment; waste management; biotechnology and biomedicine.
 - Share experience on developing new and renewable sources of energy and share research and experiences aimed at saving energy with the use of efficient technologies and the implementation of sustainable approaches for the generation, transmission and consumption of energy;
 - Encourage initiatives among member countries of FEALAC aiming at the eradication of illiteracy, in the fulfillment of the Second Millennium Development Goals by 2015.
 - Strengthen efforts in the promotion of projects on disaster prevention, reduction, mitigation, relief and rehabilitation. To this end, we share the intention to continue to explore ways of combining our efforts in all international fora, including the United Nations, and in the context of the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction, as well as in regional institutions established for these purposes. In this regard, we will place special emphasis on regional initiatives and projects related to early warning for natural disasters and disaster risk reduction, and pandemic emergencies, such as HIV/AIDS, SARS and avian flu.
27. We welcomed the holding of the two synergetic activities that were conducted in Brasilia, alongside and in the framework of the III FMM, namely the Business Seminar between East Asia and Latin America, as well as the Academic Seminar that congregated members of research institutes of the two regions and took note of their recommendations. In this regard, we welcomed the participation of members from the media and the NGOs in those events as a valuable contribution to FEALAC activities.

28. In concluding the discussions, we reached general consensus that the continuation and strengthening of co-operation between East Asian and Latin American countries are one of the most desirable and fruitful endeavor, bearing in mind that East Asia and Latin America are two of the most dynamic, fast-growing and multi-culturally interactive regions of the world.
29. We decided to meet again at the level of Foreign Ministers at a venue and on a date to be decided by consensus.
30. We expressed our appreciation to the outgoing coordinators of FEALAC, Brazil and the Republic of Korea, and welcomed the new Regional Coordinators, Argentina and Japan.

Statement of the III FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting on the Hostage Situation in Afghanistan

We, Ministers of State and other Head of Delegations gathered here in Brasilia to participate at the III Foreign Ministers' Meeting of the East Asia-Latin America Co-operation Forum, expressed concern on the current situation of Afghanistan and shared the view that the recurring terrorist attacks in the region and elsewhere demonstrated that terrorism in all its forms and manifestations remains a persistent, evolving and long-term threat to peace, security and prosperity. In particular, we condemned the hostage taking in Afghanistan and shared the grief and sorrow of the families of hostages and victims. At the same time, we called for the immediate unconditional and safe release of the remaining hostages.

Statement of the III FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting of Solidarity with the People of Peru

Deeply distressed by the tragic consequences of the earthquake that on the 15th of August affected Peru, especially the regions of Pisco, Ica and Cañete, we, Ministers of State and other Heads of Delegations gathered here in Brasilia to participate at the III Foreign Ministers' Meeting of the East Asia-Latin America Cooperation Forum, expressed our sorrow and solidarity with the people and Government of Peru.

TOKYO DECLARATION

FEALAC IV Foreign Ministers' Meeting (4th FMM : 2010.1.16-17)

Introduction

1. We, the Foreign Ministers of the member countries of the Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation (FEALAC), met in Tokyo, on 16th and 17th of January, 2010, to strengthen the links between the two regions and broaden the areas of our cooperation. On this occasion, we welcomed the admission of Mongolia as a new member of the Forum.
2. Recalling the achievements of the previous three Foreign Ministers' Meetings, we unanimously adopted this Tokyo Declaration.

10 years of FEALAC and Beyond

3. Ten years have passed since the creation of FEALAC. We recognized that the relations between East Asia and Latin America have deepened considerably. We especially noted that the bi-regional trade between East Asia and Latin America has quadrupled, far outpacing the increase of other region-to-region trades in the world. The links between the two regions and their peoples, once described as missing, are getting broader and deeper.
4. We acknowledged that FEALAC has developed from its infancy to its youth in these years, by taking root as a useful forum to promote closer interactions and dialogue between the two regions. We reaffirmed that FEALAC is a unique forum that plays critical roles in promoting mutual learning of best practices in the both regions, in multiplying mutual benefits by cooperation and exchanges among countries of the regions and in collaborating to meet common global challenges in the international community. The cooperation through FEALAC, which represents 40% of the world population, 26% of the world economy and more than 40% of the world trade, has global relevance.

5. In this context, we committed ourselves to further strengthening our activities and interactions through the frameworks of FEALAC, in order to make the most of the vast potential in the bi-regional cooperation as well as to jointly tackle major challenges that we face in the world of today and future.

Major Challenges that Fealac Member Countries Face

- Financial and economic crisis

6. We recognized that the global economy appears to have emerged from the worst stage of crisis and we are in the midst of transition from crisis to recovery although we must remain vigilant. We recognized the important role of the G20 in tackling the global financial and economic crisis. We appreciated that our experience of the past crises and our responsive fiscal and monetary policies toward the latest crisis played a key role in confronting this grave challenge and stopping the sharp decline in economic activities that the crisis could have brought.
7. We shared the recognition that the impact of the crisis still continues to impact negatively on both regions, hampering our effort for recovery, and, in particular, undermining the most vulnerable countries. We reaffirmed the importance of taking wise fiscal policies and prudent financial management policies to build a resilient and viable international economy and of developing strategies to mitigate the impact of the crisis and to prevent future crisis, particularly for the poor. These include, combating all forms of protectionism and promoting global trade and investment including through an ambitious and balanced conclusion of the WTO Doha Development Round Negotiations, consistent with its mandate including development goals, in the year of 2010 based on the progress already made including with regard to its modalities. In this context, we stress the importance of accomplishing the quantified targets of IMF and the World Bank governance reform endorsed by 2009 IMF World Bank annual meeting in Istanbul, and restructuring International Financial Institutions, and undertaking actions necessary to achieve inclusive, sustainable and balanced growth. In this regard, we welcomed the Framework for Strong, Sustainable, and Balanced Growth launched at the G20 Pittsburgh Summit in September 2009. We also reiterated that the crisis of such global dimension requires the participation of all nations in the search for fair and viable solutions, in an inclusive and democratic framework, with the important role of the United Nations. We, therefore, reinforced our determination to continue working together to accelerate economic recovery by sharing our own experiences, wisdom and best practices that both regions obtained as they got over the past crises. We believe that FEALAC is an appropriate international forum to provide opportunities for such cooperation between countries of both regions.

8. We supported international and regional efforts to reduce hunger, malnutrition and food insecurity through international cooperation and investment in food security, sustainable agriculture and rural development. This includes promoting and cooperating in the research, development, including transfer, of technologies, practices and process in the agriculture sector, particularly those that improve the efficiency and productivity of agriculture systems in a sustainable manner and those that could support adaptation to the adverse effects of climate change.

- Social inclusion

9. We believe that economic growth must entail social inclusion through active policies and further involvement by member countries as well as through greater international cooperation. We are acutely aware that the global financial and economic crisis affects, above all, those who live in poverty and in disadvantageous circumstances. We emphasized the importance of international cooperation in supporting national efforts for fostering individual and collective well-being, under sustainable patterns through increasing the income level of people, and consolidating social safety nets. We also reaffirmed the importance of promoting the inclusive development that will strengthen skills of those who live in poverty and in disadvantageous circumstances and create job opportunities and provide decent work for them in order to maintain a productive and competitive workforce in the countries. We also acknowledge the importance of the migrant workers. We recommend that the working group on economy and society includes the topic in the discussion with an integrated approach. We welcome the next IV Global Forum on Migration and Development to be held in Mexico in 2010 with a constructive and successful conclusion. Moreover, we emphasize the need to further co-operate in efforts to achieve the Millennium Development Goals and to enhance human progress and development, particularly in the areas of poverty reduction and food security, and thus to realize a prosperous and equitable society in our regions. We agreed on the need to consider cooperation and dialogue on social inclusion and social policies as one of the main objectives and working areas on which FEALAC should focus for the orthcoming years.

- The Environment and Sustainable development

10. We recognize that the environmental issues, including climate change, affect all humankind, especially in developing countries and those more vulnerable among them, and require greater, concerted and coordinated action by the international community. FEALAC is a useful forum for member countries to share experiences, exchange views and promote cooperation in meeting these challenges. We shared the view that cooperation and mutual learning through sharing of experiences and technologies, capacity building, knowledge and lessons in particular the development and transfer of environmental friendly technology is beneficial and should be further promoted.
11. We reaffirmed the importance of tackling climate change issues and our determination to engage in efforts towards the resolution of such issues through international cooperation, based on the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities. In this context, building on the result at UN conference on climate change in Copenhagen, we recognized that much work has to be done to strengthen the climate change regime. And we reaffirmed our commitment to work constructively to ensure a successful conclusion of the 16th Session of the Conference of the Parties to the UNFCCC and the 6th Session of the Conference of the Parties to the Kyoto Protocol to be held in Mexico in 2010.
12. We stressed the need to seek ways and means to ensure that the efforts for the environmental protection are compatible with economic and social development. In this context, we recognized that coordinated global action will create new opportunities and incentives for the transfer of environmental technologies, in particular to developing countries including environmental goods and services such as organic products, energy efficient products, clean-energy transports, solar power generation and clean energy businesses. While we welcomed the inclusion by a significant number of countries of environment-related investment in their economic stimulus packages, we also acknowledged budgetary and financial restrictions hampering environment-related investment in developing countries and the current clean technology gap between these and developed ones. In view of this, we stressed the importance of ensuring favorable conditions for the development of green industries in developing countries so that they can further benefit from trade in environmental goods and services and are in a better position to contribute to global efforts for the fulfillment of the objectives enshrined in international environmental agreements. It is important that such initiatives result in net environmental benefits and are not a disguise for trade protectionism. We also stressed the importance of participating actively in the negotiation on the reduction or, as appropriate, elimination of tariff and non-tariff barriers to environmental goods and services in the WTO Doha Development Round Negotiations.

13. We shared the view that the FEALAC countries should utilize effectively their rich natural resources to implement environment - friendly measures that also realize sustainable growth to the benefit of our populations. We recognize the principle of sovereign rights of States to manage and regulate their natural resources. In this regard, we encourage the member countries to promote cooperation in areas including agroforestry, sustainable forest management and eco-tourism, as they are home to more than one third of the world's forests. We also underlined the importance of the conservation, the sustainable use and the fair and equitable sharing of the benefits derived from biodiversity as a base for all the kind of human activities, particularly in Asia and Latin America that enjoy rich flora and fauna. We thus confirmed to co-operate with each other to establish action-oriented global targets beyond 2010 constructively and to conclude the negotiation of the international regime on access and benefit sharing at the tenth meeting of the Conference of the Parties to the Convention on Biological Diversity in Nagoya, Japan.

Other Global Challenges

- Nuclear disarmament and non-proliferation

14. We shared the necessity of strengthening our efforts in the fields of nuclear disarmament, non-proliferation and peaceful use of nuclear energy. We will co-operate to ensure successful outcome of the 2010 Review Conference of the Parties to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons(NPT) so as to strengthen the Treaty's regime.

15. We recognized the importance of the full implementation of the September 2005 Joint Statement through early resumption of the Six-party talks.

- United Nations Reform

16. We reaffirmed our strong belief in multilateralism with the United Nations at its center and the commitment to uphold the principles of the United Nations Charter. We thus reaffirmed the need for a comprehensive reform of the UN, including the Security Council, to make it more effective, democratic, accountable, efficient and transparent. We reaffirmed our commitment to the Resolution adopted by the General Assembly in October 2005 (A/RES/60/1-2005 World Summit Outcome).

- Human rights

17. We reaffirmed our commitment to the promotion and protection of human rights, including through the ratification and implementation of relevant international human rights instruments.

- Transnational Organized Crime

18. We express our deep concern for the threat that transnational organized crime poses to the wellbeing and development of all States and their peoples, and express our commitment to redouble our efforts in the framework of the United Nations to ensure the universality and full implementation of the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and the Protocols thereto. We express our intention to contribute with our ideas and experiences to strengthen the fight against transnational organized crime.

- Disaster Risk Reduction and Management

19. We recognized that disasters continued to cause significant impact to the economy, society and well being of the people of East Asia and Latin America. We, therefore, reaffirmed the importance of further strengthening bi-regional cooperation, expanding the network of technical support and cooperation and sharing information and expertise among FEALAC members and international and regional institutions.

- Response to influenza pandemic

20. We recognized that the timely information sharing and mutual cooperation at global and regional levels has played an important role in the fight against the current Influenza Pandemic (H1N1). We also stressed the need to share lessons learnt from our experience between Asia and Latin America, with a view to strengthening the preparedness for a possible future pandemic.

Prospects of FEALAC Activities

21. We highly appreciated the progress made by the three FEALAC Working Groups in the cooperation in the areas specified as core programs in the Brasilia Ministerial Declaration. We also welcomed that, as described in the reports produced by the three Working Groups, a wide variety of national projects presented by each member country have contributed to deepen mutual understanding and cooperation between both regions.

22. We recognized that FEALAC's activities should be more focused and systematic for better coordination and effective management. We thus reaffirmed the need to carry out thorough stocktaking of the ongoing projects, properly categorize them under the relevant working groups and actively identify the areas of cooperation that reflect the common interests of East Asia and Latin America.

23. We therefore decided to address with a sense of urgency major challenges such as the global financial and economic crisis, sustainable development including environmental protection and climate change and social inclusion through the activities of the three Working Groups. We thus instructed the three Working Groups respectively to engage in the following priority areas in the period until the next Foreign Ministers' Meeting.

(1) the Politics, Culture, Education and Sport Working Group;

- Academic, cultural and intellectual exchange,
- Exchange of parliamentarians, policy makers and journalists
- Promotion of environmental awareness
- Sports as a means of social inclusion

(2) the Economy and Society Working Group;

- Environment and sustainable development
- Poverty reduction and social inclusion
- Trade and investment promotion

- Utilization of information and communication technology (ICT)
- Promotion of small and medium enterprises (SMEs)
- Tourism
- International Migration
- Infrastructure and integration

(3) the Science and Technology Working Group

- New and renewable energy
- Green House Gas mitigation technology
- Disaster risk reduction and management
- Technological innovation to strengthen the competitiveness
- Prevention and control of infectious diseases

24. In this regard, we welcomed the new projects and initiatives as well as those already introduced in the Working Groups proposed by member countries and commended those member countries for their valuable contributions to deepen and further promote cooperation and exchanges through FEALAC process.
25. We decided to reform the modality of Working Group meetings to make them more cost effective and sustainable by holding the three Working Group meetings consecutively in one venue. On this new modality, the Regional Coordinators will host the three Working Group meetings, SOM and FMM, unless otherwise decided by consensus.
26. We also decided to create the Coordinating Board which aims at making FEALAC activities more effective and consistent by establishing follow-up mechanism of the decisions taken by Foreign Ministers and SOM, as well as by improving the coordination among three Working Groups.
27. We decided to create the Cyber-secretariat by further developing the current FEALAC official website and eventually establishing a secretariat for the better management and promotion of the Forum. We appreciated Korea's willingness to host the Cyber-secretariat and make necessary changes to the existing website so that communication and coordination among the members could be enhanced. We also directed our respective officials to intensify their efforts in supporting Korea to achieve this objective.
28. We also instructed each Working Group to consider and assess co-operation offers and demands as well as needs and capacities of member countries in the areas or subjects discussed in each group. A segment for technical cooperation will thus be created with a view to optimize the utilization of the cooperation resources of both regions while respecting Member States national priorities and development policies.

29. We recognized that this meeting provided a timely opportunity to consolidate and strengthen FEALAC. We requested the Senior Officials to undertake a stocktake of the forum's progress, achievements, membership issues, and the forum's future direction.

Outreach

30. We recognized the contributions made by the Asian Development Bank (ADB) and the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) in order to address major challenges in their respective regions. We also appreciated the efforts of the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) and the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and Pacific (ESCAP) to promote bi-regional cooperation. We encouraged these organizations to play a greater role in the FEALAC process. In this regard, we instructed each Working Group to explore ways to enhance financial and technical cooperation with these organizations and others from these regions to carry out the FEALAC projects.
31. We appreciated an informative and constructive dialogue with the representatives of ADB, IDB and the World Bank participated in the FMM IV and recognized the importance of continuing this kind of dialogue between these international financial institutions and FEALAC.
32. We emphasized the necessity of promoting the publicity of FEALAC inside and outside the FEALAC member countries. We also consider it important to mobilize the private sector and other stakeholders of the member countries, as appropriate, for the FEALAC activities.

Conclusion

33. The next Foreign Ministers' Meeting will be held at a venue and on a date to be decided by consensus.
34. We expressed our appreciation to the outgoing Coordinators of FEALAC, Argentina and Japan, and welcomed the new Coordinators, Argentina and Indonesia.

FEALAC Ministers' statement on the situation in Haiti

We, the Foreign Ministers of FEALAC member states, express our deepest sorrow for the tragic loss of lives and suffering of the Haitian people and others residing in Haiti caused by destructive earthquake that struck Haiti on 12 January 2010. We reaffirm our solidarity with the government and people of Haiti and the families of the victims. We also convey our deepest sympathy to the United Nations and to all countries participating in the United Nations Stabilization Mission in Haiti (MINUSTAH) for the tragic demise of their team members and for the destruction of MINUSTAH's UN headquarters. We call for continued efforts to rescue the victims and support the reconstruction of Haiti.

DECISION on The Bi-Regional Center for the Development of Small and Medium Enterprises

The Ministers of State and other Heads of Delegation in the Fourth Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in Tokyo,

Recognizing the importance of improving the capacities of SMEs as a concrete means for the creation of jobs and the reduction of poverty,

Expressing the intent of reinforcing the regional development of micro, small and medium enterprises,

DECIDE:

To request the Working Group on Economy and Society to conclude in the next annual meeting the revision of the feasibility project for the establishment of the Bi-Regional Center for the Development of Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs), document VI/ESWG/ECU/2008/07, which encompasses the following elements :

A network of financial and commercial information regarding business organizations, which will be devised by interested countries with the aim of monitoring, identifying and disseminating investment and commercial opportunities in both regions

A data bank that will allow the dissemination of opportunities for SMEs operating in different member countries, especially related to academic research activities or business experiences

Use of information regarding experience and best practices for SME training, especially regarding the development of exporting skills

Operational Structure

Likewise, the Senior Officials express their wish that the Working Group on Economy and Society will make recommendations to the SOM in order to be submitted to the coming Ministerial Meeting.

DECISION on Sub-Group of Tourism of FEALAC

The Ministers of State and other Heads of Delegation in the Fourth Foreign Ministers' Meeting held in Tokyo,

Inspired by the spirit of friendship prevailing in the relationships between the two regions;

Considering the strengthening of cooperation ties between Latin America and East Asia;

Motivated by the wish to promote greater rapprochement between the respective peoples in the area of tourism;

Convinced that tourism is an excellent instrument to promote not only economic development but also understanding, goodwill and the rapprochement of their people;

Bearing in mind the decision on Tourism of the Third Ministerial Meeting of the Forum for East Asia-Latin America cooperation (FEALAC), which set up the Sub-Group of Tourism.

DECIDE :

the modalities and responsibilities as follows :

I. MODALITIES OF THE SUB-GROUP OF TOURISM OF FEALAC

Sub-group meetings will be open to all FEALAC member countries.

The coordination of the Sub-Group will be shared by the Co-Chairs of the FEALAC Working Group on Economy and Society.

The coordinators of the Sub-Group will prepare the provisional agenda of the Meeting and will circulate it among its members.

The Sub-Group will meet in conjunction with the Economy and Society Working Group on meetings at the same venue.

The coordinators of the Sub-Group will be responsible for:

- The elaboration of the reports on the Sub-Group activities;
- The submission of its recommendations to the FEALAC Working Group on Economy and Society;

The report of the Sub-Group meeting, along with its recommendations will be approved by consensus.

The recommendations adopted by the Sub-Group will be submitted to the Economy and Society Working Group on for its considerations.

II. RESPONSIBILITIES

1. Promote bringing together national tourism sectors to examine the measures and mechanisms aimed at increasing tourist flows between the two regions;
2. Foster the adoption of regional cooperation measures and mechanisms, aimed at creating opportunities for the exchange of successful experiences for the mutual development of, and access to, markets of member countries;
3. Coordinate common positions in international organizations and at conferences and fora dealing with tourism;
4. Give incentives to environmental preservation and share successful experiences on sustainable tourism management policies, plans and processes, especially in view of the importance of the issue of climate change;
5. Promote the exchange of experiences in alleviation of poverty by creating jobs in the tourism sector, contributing to achievement of the United Nations Millennium Development Goals;
6. Foster the exchange of knowledge to examine measures and mechanisms aimed at promoting cultural heritage preservation;
7. Promote the discussion and exchange of information about rates and investments, as well as the incentives that each country offers to foreign investors;

8. Promote cooperation between analysts, consultants and experts from both regions, for the purpose of boosting the level of specialization and professionalism of the persons involved in promoting and developing tourism
9. Encourage students and instructors of tourism to take advantage of scholarship opportunities offered by schools, universities and training centers of the other member countries.”

BUENOS AIRES DECLARATION

FEALAC V Foreign Ministers' Meeting(5th FMM : 2011.8.25)

Introduction

1. We the Foreign Ministers of the member countries of the Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation(FEALAC), met in Buenos Aires, on August 25th, 2011, to strengthen the links between the two regions and broaden the areas of our cooperation. On this occasion, we welcome Suriname and Honduras as new members of the Forum.
2. Recalling the achievements of the previous four Foreign Ministers' Meetings, we unanimously adopt this Buenos Aires Declaration.

Fealac Present and Future

3. In the first decade of its creation, FEALAC has evolved from a forum of dialogue into a more solid and stable mechanism for cooperation. During this period FEALAC has grown quantitatively, in terms of its member countries and activities, as well as qualitatively, in terms of its scope and areas of cooperation, covering common economic and social development goals. In its initial stage this forum has found its ground and begun to be widely recognized by the international community. Undoubtedly, the Forum has been able to make steady progress towards its intended goals.
4. We recognize that FEALAC has taken root as a useful forum to enhance mutual understanding and to increase economic, social and cultural ties and dialogue between the two regions and among its members. FEALAC is a unique forum that plays critical roles in promoting mutual acknowledgement of best practices in the two regions, in multiplying mutual benefits through cooperation and exchanges among countries of the regions and in collaborating to meet common global challenges. Cooperation through FEALAC, which represents 40% of the world population, 32% of the world economy and more than 40% of the world trade, has global relevance. FEALAC is an ideal forum to widen opportunities for deeper cooperation between East Asia and Latin America.

5. FEALAC has consolidated over the last 10 years, as a broad-based and effective forum for interregional cooperation. The process has had a crucial and progressive role in promoting cooperation and partnership between East Asia and Latin America. Entering the second decade of FEALAC, it becomes necessary for its member countries to enhance their participation in its initiatives and activities, so that FEALAC can further develop. We consider that it is the right time to pursue this task and strengthen efforts to promote the FEALAC process with a view to building long-term strategic interregional relations based on consistency, trust and cooperation in international fora.
6. We underline that economic growth must go hand in hand with social and economic policies that favor a sustainable, fairer and more equitable creation and distribution of wealth and strengthen links between the two regions including trade, foreign investment, aid and other relevant flows. Countries also need to share their experiences in the field of social inclusion.
7. As the world is today confronted by a number of multifaceted and interconnected global problems and challenges - such as financial crises, social exclusion, food and energy security, nutrition, socio-natural disasters, transnational organized crime, illegal traffic in narcotic drugs, terrorism, nuclear proliferation and climate change -, FEALAC must increase its effectiveness. In this context, this forum offers the opportunity to work together to deepen and broaden inter-regional relations between East Asia and Latin America to face common challenges and to achieve development goals. These efforts should be consistent with and supportive of the commitments adopted at the United Nations by its Member States.
8. We recognize science, technology and innovation as essential features of the 21st century. In this context, we encourage all FEALAC member countries to further develop projects to promote cooperation in these areas (including the education field), creating synergies and using the ability to interconnect and interact in order to create, produce, distribute, adopt, and use scientific and technical knowledge. We welcome the FEALAC Action Plan on Science and Technology, which shall facilitate and foster cooperation in these fields.

Major Challenges Faced by FEALAC Member Countries

- The Global Financial and Economic Crisis, Reform of the International Financial System and Trade Relations
9. The recent global financial and economic crisis with the increase of uncertainties and downside risks underlined the need for an international financial and economic architecture oriented toward strong, inclusive, sustainable and balanced growth. FEALAC mindful of the central role of the United Nations in addressing solutions for ongoing global challenges, values the goals set by the G20 to address global economic challenges and also acknowledges the importance of debates in the G20 regarding macroeconomic coordination, international monetary system reform, financial regulation, and sustainable development that need to take into consideration the interests of all countries.
 10. The global economy faces major challenges and a robust recovery from the world financial crisis needs to be sustained in a more balanced way. We express deep concern that the ongoing recovery has not yet resulted in sufficient employment, social inclusion, and adequate growth rates for all economies. Even in some advanced economies unemployment is still high, and there remain social, fiscal, and financial vulnerabilities such as slow progress in fiscal consolidation, sovereign debt crisis, increasing concentration of wealth, and incomplete financial sector recovery and reform.
 11. We reaffirm the importance of promoting inclusive and sustainable development that will strengthen the employable skills of those who live in hunger, poverty and unfavorable circumstances, and create job opportunities and encourage the promotion of decent work for them in order to improve their living standards, including their access to food, income, land and essential social services, and to maintain a decent productive life and competitive workforce in the countries. In this context, we recognize that coordinated global efforts, such as the G20 Seoul Development Consensus and other initiatives that have been carried out, to promote capacity building in developing countries, should be sustained and strengthened.
 12. The ministers underscore the need to continue strengthening regional financial safety nets, such as the Chiang Mai Initiative and the Latin America Reserve Fund to cope with tensions in the world financial markets and also welcome the Union of South America Nations (UNASUR) decision to create a Council on Economy and Finance as coordinating body to assess concrete alternatives to enhance and expand RFAs in South America.

13. We support global, regional and national efforts to eradicate poverty, hunger, malnutrition and food insecurity through regional and international cooperation and investment in food and nutrition security, sustainable agriculture and rural development, including the exchange of information on and transfer of technology and capacity building in animal and plant health, and in the use of new technologies to enhance productivity in agriculture, livestock, aquaculture and food processing. We stress the importance of ensuring the sufficient and stable availability of food in our region and the timely and uninterrupted access to it, and recognize the importance of promoting small scale agriculture and establishing school feeding programs. We recognize the need to increase food production while combating climate change to which agricultural greenhouse gases are a contributing factor. In this regard we acknowledge the work of the Global Research Alliance on Agricultural Greenhouse Gases.
14. In this context, we recall the paramount importance of pursuing reform of trade in agriculture in accordance to the agreement on agriculture and the Doha Development Agenda and promoting the role of transparent, rules-based, and well-functioning agricultural markets underpinning the efficient production and distribution of food, including the transparency of public and private food stocks.
15. We recognize the challenge for many countries of price volatility in the food and oil markets. We support greater efforts in responsible fora to address the need for greater stability through improved markets.
16. We also welcome the approval of FAO's Resolution 15/2011 "International Year of Quinoa", which acknowledged the high nutritional value of this resource for the attainment of food security and nutrition, the eradication of poverty and the achievement of internationally agreed development goals. Furthermore, we undertake to work together for endorsement by the next UN General Assembly.
17. Having just four years left before the target year of the MDGs, we stress the need to accelerate collective efforts toward the achievement of the MDGs through a reinforced global development partnership. In this regard, we take note of the concerted efforts including the MDGs Follow-up Meeting held in Tokyo, Japan in June as well as the upcoming Fourth High Level Forum on Aid Effectiveness scheduled to take place in Busan, Republic of Korea in late November this year.

18. We reinforce our strong support to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) in its role of eradicating hunger and strengthening food security and we welcome the election of the new Director-General of FAO.
19. We stress our determination to continue working together to accelerate economic recovery by sharing the experiences, know-how and best practices that both regions obtained as they overcame crises in the past. We believe that FEALAC is an excellent international forum to provide opportunities for such cooperation between and among countries of both regions.
20. We reaffirm the need to strengthen efforts to fulfill internationally agreed development goals, and we are committed to making every effort to achieve the Millennium Development Goals (MDG) by 2015. In this regard, we underline the importance of efforts to reach the target of 0.7 percent of Gross National Product (GNP) for Official Development Assistance (ODA) and to improve aid effectiveness, in order to help developing countries meet the MDG's target in a timely manner.
21. We underline our commitment to preserving and enhancing the open and non-discriminatory multilateral trading system embodied in the WTO. We express our concern about the lack of significant progress in the current negotiations and agree to make further efforts to achieve an ambitious, balanced, successful and comprehensive conclusion of the WTO Doha Development Agenda negotiations, in light of development dimensions as mandated in Ministerial Conferences of Doha (2001) and Hong Kong (2005).
22. As a first step towards that aim, and recognizing the special difficulties that least developed countries face in the global economy, we support the present exploration for potential outcomes for those countries, deliverable by the Eighth WTO Ministerial Conference this December.
23. In the face of renewed strains on financial markets, there remains a possibility of increasing protectionist pressures in the future. We reaffirm our intention to comply with WTO agreements as well as to continue to ensure transparency and predictability in implementing measures that impact on trade and investment. We commit to refrain from adopting protectionist or trade distorting measures and commit to rectify such measures as they arise.

- The Environment and Sustainable Development

24. We recognize that the environmental issues, including climate change, affect life on the planet including humankind, especially to developing countries and require greater, concerted, coordinated and urgent action by the international community. FEALAC is a useful forum for the member countries to share experiences and best practices, exchange views and promote cooperation in attempting to meet these challenges. We share the view that cooperation and mutual learning through the sharing of experiences and technologies, capacity building initiatives, and know how, particularly concerning the development and transfer of environmentally friendly technology are beneficial and should be further promoted, taking into account national circumstances and priorities.
25. We will work closely together for the success of the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development (Rio+20), which will be held in Rio de Janeiro in 2012, and which shall reaffirm the commitment of all nations to sustainable development.
26. We reaffirm the importance of addressing climate-change issues and our determination to engage in efforts towards the solution of such issues through cooperation by all countries based on the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities. In this respect, we reaffirm our commitment to work constructively to further fulfill the Bali Road Map, to implement the Decisions adopted in Cancun last December 2010 at the 16th Conference of the Parties to the UNFCCC and the 6th Conference of the Parties serving as the meeting of the Parties of the Kyoto Protocol, as well as to ensure the successful conclusion of the 17th Conference of the Parties to the UNFCCC and the 7th Conference of the Parties serving as the Meeting of the Parties of the Kyoto Protocol to be held in South Africa in 2011.
27. We are fully aware of the danger that sea level rise poses, specially to coastal nations, and reiterate our determination to use every effort to cope with this threat and alleviate its impacts.
28. We stress the need to seek ways and means to ensure that the efforts for the protection of the environment are compatible and mutually reinforcing with socio-economic development. In this context, we recognize that coordinated global action must create new opportunities and incentives for the transfer and deployment of environmentally friendly technologies, in particular to developing countries.

29. We reaffirm the sovereign rights of States over their natural resources and biodiversity. In this regard, we encourage the member countries to promote cooperation in the conservation and sustainable use of biodiversity, including sustainable forest management and water resource management as one of the key sectors in the environmental, social and economic fields. We also underline the importance of biodiversity conservation, sustainable use of its components and the fair and equitable sharing of benefits arising from genetic resources and associated traditional knowledge as a contribution to sustainable development and to poverty eradication, particularly in East Asia and Latin America.
30. We are committed to cooperating constructively with each other to implement the Strategic Plan for Biodiversity 2011-2020 and the Aichi Biodiversity Targets, as well as the Resource Mobilization Strategy set forth by the international community and to support also the early ratification and implementation of the "Nagoya Protocol on Access to Genetic Resources and the Fair and Equitable Sharing of Benefits Arising from their Utilization" to the Convention on Biological Diversity, adopted at the tenth Conference of the Parties to the Convention on Biological Diversity in October 2010.

- United Nations Reform

31. We reaffirm our commitment to strengthening the important role of multilateralism and a multilateral international system with the United Nations at its heart. We reaffirm that the need for a comprehensive reform of the United Nations remains a priority for the Organization in order to most effectively address today's global challenges and ensure an effective support for its members, including addressing the needs of developing countries. We stress the importance of the reform in order to achieve a more democratic, representative, legitimate, efficient, effective and accountable UN Security Council, a revitalized General Assembly, and an enhanced Economic and Social Council.

- Human Rights

32. We reaffirm the universal validity of human rights and our commitment to its promotion and protection, including through joining and implementing relevant international human rights and humanitarian law instruments.

33. We express our willingness to work on the promotion and protection of human rights through the exchange of experiences, best practices and cooperation within the Human Rights Council and other specialized bodies in human rights, in order to contribute to strengthening their work and impact around the world.
34. We stress the value of international cooperation as a means to help meet the challenges pending in this respect, as well as ongoing cooperation with specializing human right entities supporting the state actions.

- Disaster Risk Reduction and Management

35. The earthquakes that took place in Chile and Christchurch, and the earthquake and tsunami which occurred in Japan, as well as other emergencies suffered by different FEALAC countries, pointed out the impact of socionatural disasters on the economy, society and human beings of East Asia and Latin America. We, therefore, reaffirm the importance of further strengthening inter-regional cooperation, expanding the network of technical support and cooperation and sharing information and expertise among FEALAC the participation of civil society. We stress the need for the Second members and international and regional institutions in the area of disaster risk reduction, preparedness and management. We reaffirm that disaster risk, reduction polices should aim at reducing socioeconomic vulnerabilities and promoting local resilience and FEALAC Symposium on Pan-Oceanic Cooperation for Disaster Risk Reduction taking into account the Hyogo Framework for action to be held based on the participation of many countries. In this regard, we welcome Japan's proposal to hold an International Conference in 2012 to share its experiences and lessons learned on the Great East Japan Earthquake, as well as to host the Third World Conference on Disaster Reduction in 2015.
36. Japan expressed its deep appreciation for the support and solidarity rendered by FEALAC member countries after the Great East Japan Earthquake of March 11, 2011. We commended Japan's expressed determination towards both reconstruction and continuing fulfillment of its role as a leading member of the international community.
37. We reiterate our solidarity for the reconstruction process of respective countries seriously affected by natural disasters and reaffirm our strong commitment to share the information among FEALAC countries in a timely manner so that the recovery in trade and investment in affected countries could be duly accelerated.

- Transnational Organized Crime

38. We express our deep concern for the threat that transnational organized crime poses to the security, well-being and development of all States and their peoples, and we call on all countries to join and implement fully the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and the Protocols thereto. We confirm our intention to contribute with our knowledge and best practices to strengthen the fight against transnational organized crime, including illegal traffic in narcotic drugs.
39. We reaffirm our commitment to promoting regional actions in addressing the world drug problem that requires an integrated and balanced approach, under the principle of common and shared responsibility, respect for state sovereignty, territorial integrity, noninterference in internal affairs and respect for human rights, in order to reduce the supply of drugs and their demand.

- Corruption

40. Corruption threatens the stability and security of societies, distorts fair competition and market integrity, undermines the institutions and values of democracy, ethical values and justice and jeopardizes sustainable development and the rule of law. We are therefore committed to ratifying and implementing the United Nations Convention against Corruption, and to cooperating in the fight against this menace.

- Terrorism

41. We express our most vehement condemnation of terrorism in all its forms and manifestations, as we consider it criminal and unjustifiable under any circumstances, regardless of where and by whom it is committed, and because it constitutes a serious threat to international peace and security as well as to human life and dignity, peaceful and civilized coexistence.
42. We reaffirm our strongest conviction to work together, in the spirit of joint effort and close and continue cooperation, founded on the absolute respect for international law, including humanitarian law, human rights law, refugee law and the purposes and principles enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations - at the regional and international levels - to prevent, combat and eliminate terrorism.

- Illicit Traffic of Cultural Property and Clandestine Excavations

43. We recognize that the illicit acquisition, import, export and transfer of cultural property, as well as the clandestine excavations are two of the main causes of the impoverishment of the cultural heritage of our countries and that international co-operation constitutes one of the most efficient means of protecting each country's cultural property against all the dangers resulting there from. Therefore, FEALAC members undertake to oppose such practices with the means at their disposal.

Cooperation between East Asia and Latin America

44. We share the view that emerging East Asia and Latin America have been among the fastest growing regions of the world economy during the last years. We recognize that the regions that make up FEALAC have been more dynamic and less affected by the crisis. In this context, we encourage both Latin American and East Asian governments and enterprises as well as global business partners operating in the regions to continue working together to ensure and facilitate the quicker exchange and greater flows of goods, investments and services between the two regions, including through trade liberalization considering the asymmetries among countries and stress the importance of promoting greater efforts aimed at enhancing economic cooperation between East Asia and Latin American countries, bearing in mind the special needs of those vulnerable economies such as landlocked and small island states.
45. We also recognize that FEALAC's cooperation needs to be crosscutting and action-oriented to produce tangible benefits and substantial results. Activities of the Working Groups should be more focused and systematic for better coordination and effective management to avoid duplication. We also share the view that the working groups should concentrate their cooperative efforts towards those priorities with the greatest impact on common interests between East Asia and Latin America regarding the priority areas identified in the Tokyo Declaration, issued during the Fourth FEALAC Ministerial Meeting (Tokyo, 2010). Thus, we urge the Working Groups to focus on exploring the huge potentials of its members in their natural resources and enhancing less-explored areas, such as innovation, science and technology and tourism, especially ecotourism and sports.

46. We recognize the potential of the South-South Cooperation and Triangular Cooperation as mechanisms that allow sharing the strengths and institutional capabilities of the countries of both regions, to contribute to their social and economic development and to strengthening linkages between the government, academic, productive, entrepreneurial and other relevant sectors of the region. Therefore, we urge to continue working on the bi-regional agenda, with strong coordination between the two regions.
47. We reaffirm that people-to-people contacts also constitute a very important part of East Asia-Latin America partnership. We stress that further substantial efforts must be made to bring FEALAC closer to our citizens and civil society and to reach out to peoples of East Asia and Latin America by funding programs in this area. No efforts should be spared to enhance the visibility of partnership and the transparency of the FEALAC process.
48. We emphasize the importance of engaging the private sector of the member countries in FEALAC activities. In addition, we recognize the relevance to strengthen the development of cooperation activities in the field of culture and education, especially student exchange for the promotion of the activities of this forum, as well as its significance for the two regions.
49. We welcome and take note of the non paper titled "Revitalization, Enhanced Visibility and Future Direction of FEALAC" (Annex G of the Report of the XI Senior Officials Meeting), and direct Senior Official to prepare recommendations for consideration by us at our next meeting.
50. We decide to create the "FEALAC Vision Group" with the aim to guide the future direction of this forum and to provide strategic framework for strengthening and deepening of comprehensive cooperation between the two regions including taking into consideration the recommendations mentioned in paragraph 43 (SOM XI Report). We emphasize active participation of Regional Coordinators for the Vision Group to be launched within six months and for the final report of the Vision Group to be submitted to the next Foreign Ministers Meeting.
51. We recommend that Working Groups in FEALAC should prioritize technical cooperation as one of the tools for the exchange of experiences, training and knowledge to achieve objectives that are to be identified. We shall encourage Working Groups to develop studies to establish mechanisms that enable the full or partial funding of bi-regional cooperation initiatives in the framework of this forum.

52. We recognize that politics, culture, education, and sports are key topics in our process of deepening cooperation within our two regions. Thus, we recommend member countries to put into practice iconic FEALAC-wide projects, such as the university network as a pilot project. We also encourage the use of the Cyber Secretariat for this purpose so as to create closer ties among FEALAC countries by facilitating exchanges of information on bi-regional cooperation projects.
53. We recognize science, technology and innovation as key themes in the process of deepening cooperation within FEALAC. Thus, we urge Member Countries to put into practice the Sectorial Action Plan on Science and Technology, and to encourage cooperation among research and development institutions existing in the two regions, so as to create closer ties among FEALAC countries in this area, inter alia by identifying joint mechanisms for developing bi-regional cooperation projects.
54. Regarding the establishment of the FEALAC Financial Business and Commercial Information Network, we approve the Format for Business Information for the FEALAC Cyber Secretariat.
55. Argentina presented a proposal to establish a FEALAC Database of Investment Projects, a FEALAC Investment Network and a FEALAC Business Forum which will include participation from the private sector. The proposal is a contribution to create awareness on existing investment opportunities in both regions.
56. The Working Group on Economy and Society had an active discussion regarding the Feasibility Project for the Bi-Regional Center for Development of Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs), document VI/ESWG/ECU/2008/07 and recognized the need for a Technical Revision of the document, which will entail Work Plan and Funding. The Group decided the following course of action :
 - Ecuador will update the project proposal and re-circulate among members for comments from the respective technical agencies, for this to be discussed before the 9th Working Group Meeting.
 - Through these actions, the Working Group will be in a position to make recommendations, as instructed by the Foreign Ministers' decision.
57. The Sub-Working Group on Tourism emphasized the importance of sharing information about tourism flows, touristic information, regulations of entry, stays and exits, as well as to address the issue of improving interregional connectivity and conduct studies in air access and investments. It recommended the creation of the "Format for Tourism Information", as well as the approval in the future of the framework on Tourism between Latin American and East Asian countries, aimed at increasing tourism cooperation between the two regions and agreed to provide FEALAC Cyber Secretariat with brief information on upcoming major tourism events.

58. We highly appreciate the progress made by the Working Groups in Bali (XI SOM) and in Buenos Aires (XII SOM). We also welcome the fact that, as described in the reports of the Working Groups and the Sub-Working Group on Tourism, a wide variety of national projects presented by each member country has contributed to deepening communication, mutual understanding and cooperation between both regions.
59. In this regard, we welcome the new projects and initiatives submitted in the Working Groups proposed by member countries and commend those member countries for their valuable contributions to deepening and further promoting cooperation and exchanges through FEALAC process.
60. We recognize the Coordinating Board as a useful mechanism to make FEALAC activities more effective and consistent by establishing a follow-up mechanism of the decisions taken by Foreign Ministers and SOM, as well as by improving the coordination among the Working Groups.
61. We express our satisfaction for the efforts and contributions made by the Cyber Secretariat to facilitate communication among member countries and to enhance FEALAC's visibility by reinforcing the FEALAC website and hosting the "2011 FEALAC Cyber Secretariat Workshop." We also support the Cyber Secretariat's eventual development as an effective support mechanism to further strengthen FEALAC's role and efficiency in promoting bi-regional cooperation. In this regard, we renew the request to member countries to make continuous and timely cooperation with the FEALAC Cyber Secretariat in all matters related to FEALAC.
62. We appreciate the contributions made by the Asian Development Bank (ADB), the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) and the World Bank, in order to address major challenges in their respective regions. We also appreciated the efforts of the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) and the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and Pacific (ESCAP) to promote bi-regional cooperation. We encouraged these organizations to play a greater role in the FEALAC process. In this regard, we instructed the Coordinating Board to explore ways to enhance financial and technical cooperation with these organizations and others from these regions to implement the FEALAC projects.

63. We furthermore recognize the importance of other initiatives for dialogue and convergence that promote regional integration while also fostering closer ties between East Asia and Latin America.
64. While acknowledging the request to have Spanish language as a working language of FEALAC and its existing technical problems, the discussion of having Spanish Language in FEALAC should be further explored. SOM XII encouraged the members to continue the current practice of having simultaneous Spanish translation in every Foreign Ministerial Meeting.
65. The next Foreign Ministers' Meeting will be held in 2013 in Indonesia on a date to be decided by consensus.
66. We express our appreciation to the outgoing Coordinator of FEALAC, Argentina, and welcome the next Coordinator for Latin America, Colombia. We express our deep gratitude to Indonesia for having accepted to continue as the Regional Coordinator for East Asia.

ULUWATU DECLARATION

FEALAC VI Foreign Ministers' Meeting (6th FMM : 2013.6.13-14)

Introduction

We, the Foreign Ministers of the Forum for East Asia and Latin America Cooperation (FEALAC) member countries, met in Bali on 13 and 14 June 2013 at the FEALAC FMM VI, which was co-chaired by the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Indonesia, as FEALAC Regional Coordinator for East Asia, and by the Vice Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Colombia, as FEALAC Regional Coordinator for Latin America. After having substantive discussions, we adopted this 'Uluwatu Declaration'.

FEALAC and the Global Architecture

1. We recognize that since the creation of FEALAC 12 years ago the world has undergone major changes. Globalization and interdependence are the characteristics of contemporary international relations. While there have been greater opportunities, we are also increasingly facing global challenges that affect all countries and their people and the sustainable development of all humankind, which have to be addressed in a democratic and transparent manner.
2. We further note that our world has also seen a shift in global and regional political and economic situation. New markets and players are emerging, many of whom are member countries of FEALAC. Today emerging developing countries play an important role as the engine for global economic growth and development, where FEALAC economies contribute 33.43% of the world's GDP and 29.82% of global trade.

3. Addressing new and emerging challenges in today's globalized and interdependent world requires efficient collaboration, cooperation and coordination among nations and other actors. This is particularly important if we are to ensure fair and inclusive globalization and development. In this context, we recognize efforts made in regional level to create new financial institutions as source of development among the countries participating in their dynamics and to address deficiencies of the current international financial architecture.
4. Within this evolving global and regional architecture, we recognize that FEALAC can play an important role in facilitating and strengthening inter-regional cooperation and collaboration between East Asia and Latin America. We will therefore work to reinvigorate our cooperation and collaboration, reducing inequalities and gaps within and among member countries and to support the attainment of sustainable, inclusive and equitable economic growth and development, including the attainment of the Millennium Development Goals in Latin American and East Asian countries.

Promoting Connectivity of FEALAC

5. We share the common view that in order to promote an increasing inter-connectivity of our two regions, the deepening and broadening of the existing bi-regional cooperation play crucial roles. Various issues of common interest should be identified to be further explored. In light of which, we reaffirm our commitment to take effective measures of cooperation in order to overcome the needs and difficulties of states with vulnerable economies, including the landlocked developing countries and small island developing states.
6. In order to ensure a fair and sustainable development, we encourage cooperation and dialogue on macroeconomic policies and development strategies among FEALAC member countries. In this regard, we welcome the outcomes of the Seminar on "Experiences of FEALAC countries in transforming growth model towards sustainable development" held in Ha Noi, Viet Nam, 5-8 June 2013.
7. Towards this end, we underline the importance of connectivity between the two regions in narrowing the distance gaps. In this regard, we support efforts to explore cooperation in air transportation by promoting direct flights and code sharing between the two region's air carriers, as well as enhancing cooperation in sea transportation in order to facilitate greater movement of people and goods, according to international rules and laws. We also encourage institutional connectivity between the two regions, including social connectivity through academic and journalist exchanges as well as business sector mobility.

8. In view of global population growth, food security and nutrition has become a central issue. We therefore support international and regional efforts to ensure provision of sufficient, affordable and nutritious food through increased international cooperation, investment, promotion of research and development in the field of sustainable agriculture, fisheries and rural development, and concerted efforts to reduce food waste. We must aim to reduce stunting for all children under five, recognizing that this is an investment in future economic and social growth.
9. We believe that Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) are the backbone of the FEALAC economies and the largest source of domestic employment across all economic sectors in both rural and urban areas. The MSMEs sector also provides opportunities for women and youth to participate in the economic development of the country. We encourage the public-private sectors to develop MSMEs programs, which contribute to the economic development and prosperity in our regions. In this regard, we support Ecuador's initiative to develop a bi-regional center of development of the MSMEs. We also take note of the importance of exploring possible synergies with other relevant regional forums, so as to share views on ways to enable MSMEs development.
10. We reaffirm our commitment to the promotion of cooperation in the area of education, which is an essential part of economic growth and development. As an effort to achieve greater linkage between the two regions, we support Brazil's proposal of FEALAC University Network, to identify potential fields of cooperation in science and technology and to enhance the exchange of information, knowledge and experience in research and development. We welcome the Japanese initiative on FEALAC Latin America Robot Contest in which universities in FEALAC member countries have shown interest, as an important initiative to promote science and technology as well as academic cooperation. We also welcome the Colombian proposal of FEALAC "Network of Scientific-Technological convergence", that seeks to promote the joint and collaborative bioregional networking between research center and groups. We shall also explore collaboration focusing on technology based entrepreneurship including transfer of knowledge; joint knowledge management such as initiatives related to training and research projects; academic and business mobility including exchange of professors and students, as well as business associations in tech and labor-intensive areas.

11. We recognize that natural disasters exacerbated by climate change continue to affect the economic, physical, social and environmental assets of the people in East Asia and Latin America. We therefore underline the importance of disaster risk reduction and reaffirm the necessity to further strengthening inter-regional cooperation, expanding the network of technical support and cooperation and sharing information and expertise among FEALAC members and international and regional institutions in the area of disaster risk reduction, preparedness and management. This cooperation should be in line with major multilateral agreements.
12. We emphasize the importance of supporting existing regional and national initiatives amongst FEALAC members to build resilience, as well as the need to develop collaboration between regional centers on disaster risk reduction in order to respond more effectively to any future disasters, especially in its immediate aftermath, with the aim of maximizing life-saving efforts. In this sense, a feasibility study on the possibility to develop a bi-regional early warning system is foreseen as significant. We reiterate our solidarity for the reconstruction process of respective countries seriously affected by natural disasters and reaffirm our strong commitment to share the information among FEALAC countries in a timely manner so that the recovery in trade and investment in affected countries could be duly accelerated.
13. We reaffirm our commitment to increase efforts to develop cooperation on tourism, bearing in mind that tourism creates jobs, by stimulating easier movement of tourists, promoting eco-tourism and increasing involvement of youth. All these measures are taken in line with tourism ethics, which works as a fundamental frame of reference for responsible and sustainable tourism, and such tourism aims at maximizing benefits while minimizing its potentially negative impacts on the environment, cultural heritage and societies across the globe. In this regard, it is foreseen that in the future FEALAC may develop new research to provide enhanced better understanding of the tourism industry in developing resources in the tourism sector.
14. We reaffirm our commitment to strengthen socio-cultural cooperation and promote greater people to people interactions through increasing cultural education, sports and academic exchange, parliamentarians and civil societies. We acknowledge the possibilities for greater collaborations between centers of excellence and think tanks in both regions.

15. We underline the important contribution of our private sector in developing interregional trade and investment as well as a major actor in spurring greater growth. In this regard, we will facilitate greater business connectivity and networking as well as promote regular business forums. We will also facilitate greater ease of travel and movement for our business people, in accordance with national regulations.
16. Noting the important role of media as bearer of real-time information, we share the view of promoting greater connectivity between our media institutions through media linkages and journalist visits in order to increase the visibility of FEALAC within each of its member countries and contribute to a greater presence in the world.
17. We recognize the importance of enhancing international cooperation in combating transnational organized crime. In this regard, we reaffirm our commitment to take efforts to develop closer collaboration in preventing and combating transnational organized crime, including illicit traffic in narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, corruption, smuggling of migrants, trafficking in persons, particularly women and children, which has grave impacts on human rights, the rule of law, security and social economic development. We further acknowledge the importance of creating a safe cyberspace, including by enhancing international cooperation to combat cybercrime. With this end, we share the importance of cooperation in the field, which may include, information exchange, sharing of best practices and promotion of capacity building. We reconfirm our commitment to cooperate together in regional and multilateral fora in strengthening the fight against transnational organized crime and terrorism within the framework of the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and its relevant protocols and relevant international instruments on counter-terrorism.
18. We recognize the potential of the South-South Cooperation and Triangular Cooperation (SSTC) as mechanisms that allow the sharing and promotion of the strengths and institutional capabilities of the countries of both regions, based on solidarity and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty and free from any conditionalities, to contribute to their social and economic development and to strengthen linkages between the governments, academics, producers, entrepreneurs and other relevant sectors of the region. In this regard, we support Indonesia's initiative to build country-led knowledge hubs in the context of SSTC, which include institutional strengthening, knowledge exchange, coordination, bilateral and triangular cooperation, sustained engagement, as well as monitoring and evaluation.

19. We reaffirm our commitment to support the development of strategies on the energy sector which includes the development of clean technologies and renewable energy as well as expansion of access to energy services for people in remote areas through South-South cooperation, Triangular Cooperation, encouragement for innovation and increasing peoples' awareness on sustainable energy. In this regard, we welcome the outcome of the 2nd Asia-Pacific Water Summit held on 19-20 May 2013 in Chiang Mai, Thailand, and the forthcoming 22nd World Energy Congress, to be organized by the World Energy Council and held in Daegu, the Republic of Korea, from 13 to 17 October 2013.

FEALAC and the Global Challenges

20. We underscore that the ultimate goal of sustainable development is to end poverty in all its forms. We believe that achieving this objective requires that we promote sustained and inclusive economic growth with equity. With an equitable distribution, such growth will reduce inequality and meet the needs of the present without compromising the need of future generation.
21. We therefore reaffirm our commitment to fight against poverty, achieve all the MDGs and work towards an ambitious and implementable Post-2015 Development Agenda that place at its center poverty eradication, promotion of sustainable development, and equitable and inclusive growth.
22. In this context, we welcome the work that has been undertaken by the UN High Level Panel of Eminent Persons on the Post-2015 Development Agenda and the report that it has submitted to the United Nations Secretary-General. Furthermore, we hope that the report would serve as an input to the intergovernmental process that is inclusive, open and transparent that aims to agree on Post-2015 Development Agenda.
23. We recognize the importance of multilateralism in the global trading system and the commitment to achieving an open, rule-based, non-discriminatory and equitable multilateral trading system that contributes to growth, sustainable development and employment generation in all sectors. We further reiterate our commitment to concluding the WTO Doha Development Agenda of multilateral trade negotiation which places the need and the interest of all developing countries, including least developed countries, at the heart of the Doha Work Program, and call for the necessary political will and flexibilities from all parties to achieve convergences and to break the impasse in the negotiation.

24. We are ready to work closely with other WTO Members to have a fruitful and comprehensive discussion towards a conclusion of the Doha Round negotiation in accordance with its mandate through a transparent and inclusive process with a view to upholding and safeguarding the integrity of the multilateral trading system that benefits all. In this context, we express our commitment to ensuring the success of the WTO Ministerial Meeting to be held in Bali in December 2013.
25. We reaffirm our commitment to enhance inter-regional investment and in this regard, we welcome efforts to develop innovative mechanism to promote and facilitate trade and investment flows. With the objective of improving investment flows and the overall establishment of strategic associations between firms of both regions, it is relevant to prioritize coordination efforts that target investment in each of the member countries. In this regard, we support Argentina's proposal for the development of FEALAC Investment Opportunities Database, which will efficiently allow for member countries to post offers of investment projects seeking interregional investors.
26. We reiterate our commitment to a sustainable, inclusive economic growth by addressing global environmental challenges, strengthening resilience and improving disaster preparedness capacities. We will join our efforts and strive towards achieving a more stable climate, clean atmosphere, healthy and productive forests and oceans, which are just some of the environmental resources from which we all benefit. We reaffirm our determination to address climate change and to continue engaging constructively in the negotiations under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) and the Kyoto Protocol towards a Post-2020 ambitious climate change regime.
27. We share the intention to achieving universal health coverage according to national policies and capabilities. We reaffirm the importance of cooperating closely in addressing pandemic, communicable and non-communicable diseases. In this regard, we will explore possibilities of joint cooperation in addressing pandemic, communicable and non-communicable diseases, as well as exchange of experiences in promoting access to public health care, including joint research and development of medicine and vaccine, sharing of best practices and experiences, and exchange of health practitioners.

28. We recognize the invaluable economic, social and cultural contributions of all migrant workers and members of their families. We further underline the need to identify various means to maximize development benefits and address the challenges that migration pose to countries of origin, transit and destination.
29. We reaffirm our strong belief in multilateralism with United Nations at its center and the commitment to uphold the principles of the United Nations Charter. We thus reaffirm the need for a comprehensive reform of the UN, including the Security Council, to make it more effective, democratic, accountable, efficient and transparent.

From Santiago to Bali and Beyond

30. Since its creation, FEALAC has evolved from a forum of dialogue into a solid and stable cooperation forum linking the two regions. We reaffirm our commitments as outlined in Santiago in March 2001, in particular, to increase mutual understanding, trust and friendly cooperation among member countries. We have continuously enriched and developed ways and means to sharing experiences and best practices as well as tapping potentials for cross-sectorial cooperation, inter alia in trade, tourism and investment, science and technology, sustainable development, as well as people-to-people exchanges.
31. We welcome the recommendation proposed by FEALAC Vision Group, which aims at evaluating FEALAC cooperation, and providing future visions on how FEALAC can contribute to address global challenges as well as promoting a strong and closer cooperation among member countries. The Vision Group recommendation demonstrates the strong commitment of both regions to strengthen and deepen the bi-regional partnership of FEALAC based on openness and cooperation. This partnership shall be pursued with the purpose of contributing to what is good not only for the region but also for the world. In this context we welcome Republic of Korea's proposal to hold FEALAC Cyber Secretariat Workshop in March 2014 to discuss follow-up measures of the Vision Group report.

32. We noted the need for strengthening FEALAC processes and institutions in order to adequately respond to global challenges and opportunities as well as enhance inter-regional cooperation. In this regard, we agreed to refocus the existing Working Groups into as follows: 1) Working Group on Socio-Political Cooperation and Sustainable Development; (2) Working Group on Trade, Investment, Tourism, MSMEs; (3) Working Group on Culture, Youth and Gender, Sports; (4) Working Group on Science and Technology, Innovation, Education.
33. Noting the importance of constant monitoring of the progress of the cooperation, we underline the necessity to enhance communication between FEALAC members and therefore the need to have more interaction and explore inter-sessional meetings at the SOM or Deputy SOM level when necessary, strengthen the role of the Coordinating Board as well as the need to fully utilize the FEALAC Cyber Secretariat sponsored by the Republic of Korea to facilitate online communication within FEALAC. As we recognize that continuous communication and coordination is key to strengthening and expanding FEALAC, enhancing the utilization of the FEALAC Cyber Secretariat is imperative. In the same vein, in order to increase visibility, we shall encourage member countries to create a national website of FEALAC linked with the Cyber Secretariat so as to enable the general public of FEALAC member countries to access national data and information. Appreciating the contributions made by the Cyber Secretariat to the FEALAC, we renew the request to member countries to make continuous and timely cooperation with the Cyber Secretariat, including by updating and enhancing data banks.
34. To improve our mechanism of dialogue and to advance our partnership, we believe in the significance of involving cross-sectorial institutions. Regular and timely deliberations among Focal Points are foreseen as a way and mean to achieve an effective cooperation as well as monitor progress in each working group.
35. Noting the importance of research as well as strengthening FEALAC analytical and policy recommendations, we underline the importance of cooperating closely with regional organizations, including APEC, ABAC, IDB, ADB, ASEAN, Pacific Alliance, CELAC, UNASUR, OAS, ALBA, SICA and think tanks in Latin America and East-Asia.
36. In order to fully achieve its objectives and goals, FEALAC needs to transform itself into a more effective and efficient framework of bi-regional cooperation. Within this context, it is deemed necessary to evaluate finished and ongoing national projects, with a view to restructure the mechanism of work, and to establish a reliable instrument to provide data regarding various aspects of FEALAC relations. It is necessary to develop mechanisms to ensure that national projects have a wider scope of participation and transform themselves into bi-regional projects in the future.

37. In achieving all the above-mentioned objectives, we, therefore, reaffirm the importance of further strengthening bi-regional cooperation, expanding the network of technical support and cooperation, and sharing information and expertise among FEALAC members and international and regional institutions. As such, we tasked the FEALAC Senior Officials to coordinate the implementation and evaluation of all programs and activities agreed at this Meeting.

Closing

38. The next Foreign Ministers' Meeting will be held in 2015 in Costa Rica on a date to be decided by consensus.
39. We express our appreciation to the outgoing Coordinators of FEALAC, Indonesia and Colombia, and welcome the next Coordinators Thailand for East Asia and Costa Rica for Latin America.

DECLARATION OF SAN JOSE

FEALAC VII Foreign Ministers' Meeting (7th FMM : 2015.8.21)

Introduction

We, the Foreign Ministers and Heads of Delegations of the member countries of the Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation (FEALAC), attending the Seventh Ministerial Meeting of FEALAC, held in San Jose Costa Rica on 20th and 21st of August, 2015, which was co-chaired by the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Worship of the Republic of Costa Rica, His Excellency Manuel A. Gonzalez Sanz, as Regional Coordinator for Latin America, as well as His Excellency, Norachit Sinhaseni, Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Kingdom of Thailand, Regional Coordinator for East Asia, after having substantive and fruitful discussion, adopt this 「Declaration of San Jose」.

We acknowledge the Uluwatu Declaration, adopted at FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting VI in Bali, Indonesia, in June 2013, which contains our joint commitments to pursue closer cooperation and bridge the divide between FEALAC countries as well as to face the myriad challenges and opportunities facing the global multilateral framework and to promote connectivity of FEALAC in many areas. The non-paper document on the follow-up to the Uluwatu Declaration prepared by Indonesia is also recommended as a tool to monitor progress on unfinished programs and plans.

FEALAC on promoting Socio-Political Cooperation and Sustainable Development

1. We reaffirm our commitment to end poverty and hunger as the greatest global challenge and consider this to be an indispensable requirement for sustainable development. In this regard, we recognize multiple efforts of countries in both regions.

2. We commit to work in a collaborative partnership towards the adoption and implementation of the new Agenda 2030, including the 17 Sustainable Development Goals and its 169 targets, which seek, to build upon the MDGs and address unfinished business. We recognize the goals and targets are integrated, indivisible and balance the three dimensions of sustainable development: the economic, social and environmental. We also recognize there are different approaches, visions, models and tools available to each country, in accordance with national circumstances and priorities, to achieve sustainable development.
3. We commit to strengthen sustainable and effective development, including through South-South cooperation and triangular cooperation, which accompany the efforts of every state and region in the fight for the eradication of poverty, especially the most disadvantaged and marginalized sectors of society.
4. We recognize the efforts of the forum in the dissemination of good practices and successful public policies that promote the use of innovation in different sectors, including in agriculture as examples of sustainability and social responsibility as a transversal axis of development.
5. We note that the Global Partnership for Effective Development Cooperation (GPEDC) is an effective forum for lesson-learning and dissemination of good practices necessary to achieve these goals. In this regard, we commit to encourage concrete measures to strengthen and promote projects of South-South cooperation and triangular cooperation between our regions, taking into account the specific needs of developing countries based on international law and internationally agreed principles on the matter.
6. While stressing the central role of public policies and finance for sustainable development, we also note the importance of building strong economic partnerships in promoting growth and prosperity, including the role of public-private partnerships if states consider it appropriate in contributing to the capacities of states to give prompt solutions for the socio economic development of its inhabitants.
7. We favor the advances in the solutions to tropical and emerging diseases, with special attention to neglected tropical diseases and their implications for quality of life and socio-economic development of countries. Therefore, and given that such diseases manifest cyclically, we note the conclusion of the Network of Institutions engaged in Research, Prevention and Control of the Tropical and Emerging Disease Initiative promoted by the Peru and supported by Thailand, who will work together in the implementation of the network.

8. We recognize the importance of international cooperation in combating transnational organized crime, in accordance with the relevant international instruments and principles of international law.
9. We note the progress of the Network of Scientific Convergence - Technological, which was presented by Colombia at the IX Meeting of the Working Group on Science and Technology, became operational in 2014, and now has 57 research groups and 154 researcher connected to the network. Also, we celebrated the First Seminar held in Bogota, with the participation of Argentina, Brazil Costa Rica, Myanmar, Peru and Indonesia.
10. We believe that public opinion makers have a fundamental role in the articulation of synergies that unite the peoples of both regions. The progress of Singapore's "FEALAC Journalist Visit Program" is of great value in this regard as it celebrates its 16th edition in Singapore in October 2015.
11. We acknowledge the importance of dialogue on legal affairs in serving to strengthen the exchange and interaction of the legal community of the two regions, enhance mutual understanding and promote cooperation between our regions. We therefore take note that the "2nd FEALAC Legal Forum" will be held in Shanghai on September 25th, 2015.
12. We recognize the importance of enhancing community empowerment in sustainable development. In this regard, we welcome Thailand's initiative to develop FEALAC Health and Healthcare and Community Empowerment Networks. The networks will provide opportunities to share the experiences in universal health coverage and how the sufficiency economy can support grassroots economic development and bring about the wealth of nations.
13. We note the Addis Ababa Action Agenda, adopted at the Third International Conference on Financing for Development, held in Ethiopia, from the 13th to 16th of July 2015 as part of a continuing effort towards a better worldwide alliance in which the international commitments become stronger towards the financing of development. We underscore the importance of paragraphs 71, 72 and 87 of the final document, where the multidimensional nature of development and the need to strengthen efforts to address ongoing challenges are recognized, according to the heterogeneity and different needs of Middle Income Countries, for Small Island Developing States, Least Developed Countries and Land Locked Developing Countries taking into account the specific needs of these groups of countries. We also recall the need to devise methodologies to better account for the complex and diverse realities of middle-income countries.

14. We also underscore the importance of paragraphs 97 and 98 of the Addis Ababa Action Agenda referred to Debt and Debt Sustainability.
15. We welcome the strong commitment to gender equality in the Addis Ababa Action Agenda. Women's economic empowerment is critical to strengthened global growth.
16. We also share, in the spirit of paragraph 75 of the final document of Addis Ababa, that development banks effectively can and should perform an important role in widening access to finance for development, especially on quality infrastructure investment and to further develop instruments to channel the resources of long-term investors towards sustainable development. While recognizing the critical role of trade on development, we welcome paragraph 90 of the final document, which highlights Aid for Trade and trade-related technical assistance in enabling developing countries to fully participate in and benefit from trade.
17. We encourage the present and the developing international financial institutions to place importance on policies to address resources, social systems, environmental preservation and gender equality.
18. We welcome the centrality of gender equality to the Post 2015 Development Agenda which builds on the Millennium Development Goals. Realizing gender equality and the empowerment of women will make a crucial contribution towards the achievement of the sustainable development goals.
19. We support the initiative of the II International Conference on Nutrition in the framework of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) and the World Health Organization (WHO) and reaffirm its recommendation to the United Nations General Assembly to declare a Decade of Action for Nutrition 2016-2025, in order to avoid the many problems of malnutrition at the same time that greater inclusion, sustainable development and health are favored.

FEALAC and the Promotion of Sustainable Tourism

20. Sustainability, as a model for development, raises the need to satisfy the current requirements of society without compromising the right of future generations to satisfy theirs. Tourism is a resource intensive activity and the incorporation of sustainability criteria for this matter represents an area of opportunity for both regions and their communities. Consequently, we envision sustainable tourism as a balanced interaction in the proper use of our natural and cultural resources respecting the sovereignty and inherent right of each people. This type of tourism contributes to improving the quality of life of local communities and to their development.
21. In this regard, we welcome diverse initiatives of countries in both regions, including the Seminar on "Sustainable Tourism and Tourism Ethics: Tourism as an Instrument for Inclusive Growth and Economic Equity", held in Bali, Indonesia, in June 2013, which recommended the importance of the code of ethics to cover economic, social, cultural and environmental components by maximising the sector's benefits while minimising its negative impact on environment, cultural heritage, and societies, and the promotion of the technical and cultural exchange of heritage restoration for the construction of the "Visitor Center and Interpretation of the Fortification of San Lorenzo El Real de Chagres".
22. We also identify sustainable tourism as a contributor to the protection of the natural environment, the increase of high quality jobs and the improvement of people's quality of life and as a mechanism for communities to manage their own development. We support initiatives which promote sustainable tourism as a social and community activity and at the same time, serve as an integrative bridge between the two regions, in harmony with nature, to strengthen appreciation and respect by their peoples of the cultural and natural heritage.
23. In this regard, we note the contribution of the Republic of Costa Rica on the "I Seminar on Sustainable Tourism FEALAC" that was held within the framework of the 2nd Meeting of Trade, Investment, Tourism, and Small and Medium Enterprise Work Group (MSMEs) on 19 August 2015, and we note the proposal by Mexico to organize an international event on Sustainable Tourism in 2016.

Promoting Trade, Investment, Innovation and Small and Medium Businesses

24. We recognize that the expansion of interregional trade, favors closer ties between the two regions, promoting their prosperity. Therefore, we reiterate the spirit of paragraph 25 of the Uluwatu Declaration, adopted in Bali, Indonesia, on June 14, 2013, in which we express our support to members that promote development mechanisms aimed at facilitating trade and the flow of investments between the states of the FEALAC.
25. In this regard, we welcome the initiatives of countries of both regions to promote mechanisms to facilitate trade and investment. We take note of the proposal of Argentina regarding an electronic Phytosanitary Certification System (ePhyto).
26. We consider particularly important that the TTMSME's WG studies the initiatives aiming at enhancing the benefits of trade for both regions, aware that interregional trade between Latin America and East Asia has great potential to be developed. Therefore, we appreciate the results achieved during the II FEALAC Business Forum held in Bangkok, Thailand, in 2014, which reflected the importance of exchange of information relating to the way of doing business between the two regions. We endorse the institutionalization of FEALAC Business Forum proposed at the 15th FEALAC SOM meeting in Bangkok, Thailand.
27. On that basis, we note the proposal by the Republic of Korea to host a seminar on inter-regional trade to exchange opinions on the state of affairs around interregional trade initiatives including the assessment of the potential impact of ongoing interregional trade initiatives on trade and investment among FEALAC countries and to discuss ways to invigorate trade and investment between the two regions including the discussion of the initiative of establishing of an Ad-hoc Expert Group on inter-regional Trade which was introduced during the 5th Cyber Secretariat Workshop in March 2015.
28. We celebrate that the FEALAC Investment Opportunities Database is now operating fully and we encourage member States to take advantage of this useful instrument that allows countries to post offers of investment projects seeking interregional investors, thus promoting development.
29. We are committed to sharing good practices to increase the institutional capacities of the member states, as well as the design and implementation of innovative support mechanisms that generate these skills. In this context, we support the initiative of Mexico to call on the FEALAC community to draw up innovative strategies to support micro and small traditional firms. On that basis, we support the efforts of the Republic of Colombia in the proposed "Financing Innovation and Entrepreneurship" which will be held in November 2015, and of Mexico which will host a Global Conference on Innovative Strategies to support micro and medium traditional enterprises in July 2016.

30. We also welcome the proposal by Mexico to organize with the Interamerican Development Bank-IDB, a seminar on Strengthening Production Chains in Latin America, the Caribbean and Asia.
31. We celebrate the launching in the context of the process of the adoption of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, of a technology facilitation mechanism as established in the Addis Ababa Action Agenda, in order to support sustainable development goals. The mechanism will be based on a multi-stake holder collaboration between Member States, civil society, private sector, scientific community, United Nations bodies and other stakeholders.

FEALAC Cooperation in Culture, Youth, Gender and Sports

32. We recognize that the promotion of cultural education, sports and scientific knowledge of the population of our countries are elements that enhance social development in healthy environments and peoples' quality of life.
33. In this regard, we also recognize the importance of moderation as an approach that could contribute to sustainable and inclusive development, equitable growth and social harmony. Hence, we take note of Malaysia's initiative of a Global Movement of Moderates (GMM) to amplify the voices of moderation.
34. We reaffirm our commitment to strengthen efforts for the protection of cultural heritage and cultural diversity everywhere, including in areas of conflict. We emphasize the UNESCO initiatives in the sense that the deliberate destruction of cultural heritage is used as a tactic of war in a strategy of cultural cleansing, which demands us to review the means of protection of the culture of mankind.
35. We support the initiative by Vietnam and co-sponsored by Costa Rica called "FEALAC Network of Cultural Cities", which aims to strengthen international cooperation at a local level in the fields of culture, tourism and sports development. Vietnam will host the first Meeting of Provincial Leaders/Mayors on the occasion of Hue's Festival, to be held on April 2016 in Thua thien - Hue province, Vietnam.

36. We wish to state that FEALAC member countries have an invaluable natural, tangible and intangible cultural heritage. According to the 2015 World Heritage UNESCO list, the heritage sites of East Asia and Latin America together account for 36 percent of the world's registered heritage. In this regard, we welcome the initiative of the Government of Indonesia to host the II World Culture Forum, "The Power of Culture and Sustainable Development" which will be held in Bali, Indonesia, in September 2016.
37. We recognize the importance of creative and cultural industries for the comprehensive and sustainable development of societies, and the contribution they provide to job creation and economic growth of our countries, as well as to the welfare of our people. Therefore, we underline the importance of activities to research, measure, document and acknowledge the contributions of the creative and cultural industries to our economies; of the analysis and discussion of measures for the promotion and enhancement of enterprises and industries in these fields; and of exploring ways to develop more effective public policies of promotion of cultural activities in general.
38. We emphasize the need for the new generations to have better and greater opportunities to access education, to build entrepreneurial spirit, to unite, connect and collaborate among FEALAC youth. We therefore appreciate the Indonesian invitation to the youth from FEALAC countries to participate in the Indonesia FEALAC Youth Conference (IFYC) 2015, which will be held on September 18-22, 2015, hosted by the Ministry of Youth and Sports of Indonesia in collaboration with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Indonesia.
39. We recognize that Thailand will undertake the project to create a FEALAC Friendship Schools Network in order to increase the cooperation among the schools of the FEALAC member countries.
40. We recognize the participation of women in development, and that their contribution to the economy has been historically underestimated and is fundamental to economic growth. Therefore, we support the initiative presented by Thailand and co-sponsored by Argentina called "FEALAC Women Entrepreneurs", which aims to establish an information network between women entrepreneurs in the FEALAC countries to promote women's economic empowerment.

FEALAC Promotes Science, Technology, Innovation and Education

41. We welcome the initiative of Japan to host the first inter-regional school-wide robotic competitions and establish the first FEALAC Award in the IEEE Robotic competition, as a means to promote education in science and technology, as well as its initiative to enhance people-to-people exchange across the two regions.
42. We welcome the project on the FEALAC University Network to be coordinated by Brazil and Thailand.
43. We support the efforts of Colombia and Thailand to implement the project on FEALAC Science Convergence and Science and Technology and Innovation Dialogue.
44. We welcome the initiative by Brunei Darussalam in the establishment of student's mobility consortium "FEALAC University Discovery Year (FUDY)" which aims to allow students from both regions to experience and appreciate the diverse cultures and unique way of life, and encourage member states to consolidate their own study abroad programs, including the expansion of academic mobility and joined collaborative researches.

FEALAC and Climate Change

45. We reaffirm the importance of continuing and strengthening regional and international projects and programs, which promote cooperation, inter alia, in disaster risk reduction, adaptation and mitigation to climate change, technology transfer, capacity building and others, which will allow FEALAC members to reduce their vulnerability and adapt to adverse effect of climate change. We commit to work towards the success of the United Nations Conference on Climate Change (COP 21) to be held in Paris in 2015.
46. We take note of the information provided by Bolivia about an upcoming conference entitled "World Peoples' Conference on Climate Change and Defense of Life", to be held in Cochabamba, Bolivia, on October 10th-13th.

FEALAC 2015 : Two regions, One Vision

47. We agree to work towards the fundamental original objective of FEALAC, “to expand common ground on important international political and economic issues with a view to working together in different international fora in order to safeguard common interests”.
48. In this regard, we reaffirm the importance of establishing strategic synergies among FEALAC member states, international organizations and financial institutions of both regions to achieve a greater projection of this forum at the international level. We welcome initiatives to promote cooperation mechanisms to facilitate regular dialogue between FEALAC and financial institutions in order to involve them in the formulation, implementation and financing of projects. This will give us the opportunity to give FEALAC initiatives a truly bi-regional sense, to improve technical cooperation and to take advantage of good practices in efforts geared towards closer bi-regional ties.
49. To achieve “Two Regions, One Vision”, we realize the importance of connectivity between the two regions in enhancing and strengthening cooperation in all sectors, and in the efforts to narrow the distance and gaps. In this regard we take note of the initiative of the Government of Panama for the establishment of the Regional Logistics Center for Humanitarian Assistance, aimed to guarantee deployment of emergency relief items and greater coordination by bioregional humanitarian response activities.
50. We welcome the participation in this Ministerial meeting involving World Bank, Latin American Bank for Development, Korea Eximbank, International Finance Corporation, Central American Bank for Economic Integration, Latin American and Caribbean Economic System, Economic Commission for Latin American and the Caribbean, as well as the representative from the Joint Standing Committee on Commerce, Industry and Banking of Thailand.
51. In this regard, we appreciate the fruitful discussions that encourage and enrich this dialogue and the contributions provided by the International Financial Institutions and Organizations in attention to the initiatives within FEALAC.
52. We reaffirm our commitment to begin in San José, Costa Rica the preparation of the NEW FEALAC ACTION PLAN for the celebration of the 20th anniversary of FEALAC. This Action Plan will be presented in Korea in 2017.

53. We recognize the invaluable contribution that the Cyber Secretariat, hosted by the Republic of Korea, has made to FEALAC and endorse the systematization of the countries’ initiatives through the “FEALAC Project Review Survey” and Guidelines on the use of FEALAC logo.
54. We recall the contributions of the Vision Group, whose recommendations were shared at the VI FEALAC Meeting of Ministers of Foreign Affairs in Bali, Indonesia, and we commit to continue promoting more and better actions in various areas of cooperation, such as: business networking, network of universities, contests and competitions among students on issues of science and technology, and network of Think Tanks to increase dialogue and understanding between the two regions.
55. In this regard, we adopt the “Guidelines for FEALAC Working Processes”, which includes the establishment of a Coordination Meeting that invites the two current Regional Coordinators and, if possible, the two incoming Regional Coordinators, in order to ensure a coordinated Co-Presidency handover.
56. We aim to provide a space for reflection on the coordination that the forum has had to date, to stimulate proactive ways to draw new scenarios for finding common opportunities; to further enhance the comprehensive dialogue and thereby to strengthen existing and new forms of cooperation between Latin America and East Asia. In this context, we stressed our commitment to strengthening the dialogue and cooperation with several regional and sub-regional organizations and mechanisms.

Closing

57. The next FEALAC Foreign Ministers’ Meeting VIII will be held in the Republic of Korea in 2017, and the Senior Official Meeting in Guatemala in 2016, on a date to be decided by consensus.
58. We express our appreciation to the outgoing Coordinators of FEALAC, the Republic of Costa Rica and the Kingdom of Thailand, and welcome the next Coordinators, the Republic of Guatemala for Latin America and the Republic of Korea for East Asia.

FEALAC Joint Statement on the Ratchaprasong Intersection - Bangkok Bombing

We, the Member States of FEALAC, strongly condemns the bombing incident that have taken place at the Ratchaprasong Intersection, Bangkok on the 17 August 2015, causing injuries and loss of lives of innocent civilians.

We extend our deepest sympathies and condolences to the people and Government of Thailand and to the bereaved families of the victims of the bombing incident.

FEALAC deplores the use of violence and all its manifestations, its causes and its supporters.

We view the urgency to strengthen cooperation in combating terrorism. We are committed to work with the international community in this regard.

We support efforts made by the Government of Thailand to bring the perpetrators of this crime to justice.

BUSAN DECLARATION

FEALAC VIII Foreign Ministers' Meeting (8th FMM : 2017.8.31)

Introduction

1. We, the Foreign Ministers and Heads of Delegations of the member countries of the Forum for East Asia-Latin America Cooperation (FEALAC), met in Busan on August 31, 2017, in order to strengthen the interconnectivity between the two regions and broaden the areas of our cooperation. The 8th FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting was held under the leadership co-chaired by the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Korea, as the FEALAC Regional Coordinator for East Asia, and by the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Guatemala*, as the FEALAC Regional Coordinator for Latin America.
2. Recalling the achievements of the previous seven Foreign Ministers' Meetings and recognizing the substantive discussion at the 8th FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting, we unanimously adopt this Busan Declaration.

FEALAC – Untapped Potential

3. Since its creation in 1999, FEALAC has served the purpose of increasing understanding and cooperation between East Asia and Latin America, and has initiated the mechanisms of dialogue that could not have been achieved bilaterally or through other intergovernmental organizations.
4. As of 2016, FEALAC represents 38% of the global economy and 33% of the global trade, which reflects a significant growth since its creation when it represented 30% of the global economy and 24% of the global trade. We acknowledge that there is an enormous untapped potential for East Asia-Latin America inter-regional cooperation through FEALAC, as it approaches towards its 20th anniversary in 2019. With the shared view that our efforts in the coming years will define the significance of the forum, we are determined to translate the numerous ideas put forward thus far into concrete actions.

5. Amid the complex global environment there is an opportunity to reiterate our commitment to expand a shared perspective on important international political and economic issues. We recognize that strengthened connectivity based on common values such as building a dynamic and open economy, and promoting all human rights will contribute to realizing the vast potential for FEALAC in various areas of collaboration.
6. In this context, we commit to promote the effectiveness and relevance of FEALAC by building a shared stance to jointly address major global challenges and by gradually and steadily implementing the ongoing and new FEALAC initiatives.

FEALAC and Global Challenges

• Economic Challenges

7. We meet at a time when the global recovery is progressing, resilience is improved in some economies, and new sources for growth are emerging. Yet the recovery still remains uneven and there are challenges that hamper our effort to build confidence in contributing to shared prosperity. Notwithstanding the downside risks that persist in the context of economic and geopolitical uncertainty, we appreciate that we have made great strides so far since the past global financial crises, and reaffirm our past commitments on building strong, sustainable, balanced and inclusive growth, while enhancing economic and financial resilience.
8. We share the recognition that the repercussion of global economic risks continues to negatively affect East Asia and Latin America by exacerbating unemployment, social inclusion and growth rates for all economies. We reiterate our opposition to protectionism on trade and investment in all its forms. In this context, we reaffirm the significance of monitoring risks as well as fiscal, monetary and structural policies, which would build sustainable and inclusive economy and prevent future crises. We acknowledge that steady progress in implementing effective economic policies such as monetary, fiscal and structural tools remain crucial for securing stronger potential growth.

9. In this regard, we recognize the role of the G20 in implementing comprehensive and integrated policies for strong, sustainable, balanced and inclusive growth. We note the adoption of G20 Leaders' Declaration in 2017 at the G20 Summit in Hamburg.

Stressing the central role of the WTO in setting global trade rules, as well as in administering a rules-based multilateral trading system, through monitoring its Members' trade policies and settling trade disputes, we reaffirm that international trade is an engine for inclusive growth and poverty reduction and also underline our commitment to preserving, strengthening and enhancing the open, rules-based, transparent, inclusive, predictable and non-discriminatory multilateral trading system embodied in the WTO as well as meaningful trade liberalization. We welcome the result of the 10th WTO Ministerial Conference held in Nairobi, Kenya in 2015, including the process of accession of new members to the WTO. We commit to advance negotiations on the remaining Doha Development Agenda issues as well as range of issues of common interest and importance to today's economy. We express our commitment and also urge all WTO members to engage constructively in the negotiation to achieve positive outcomes through a successful consultation at the upcoming 11th WTO Ministerial Conference to be held in Buenos Aires, Argentina in December 2017 in order to contribute to development and inclusive and sustainable growth. We also take note of the importance of trade facilitation through the simplification, modernization and harmonization of the export and import procedures.

10. We believe that FEALAC is a key international forum to promote cross-cutting actions for both regions. We, thus, reinforce our determination to enhance regional and sub-regional cooperation, deeper economic integration and to accelerate economic recovery by sharing our own experiences, wisdom and best practices that both regions obtained from the past crises.

We intend to promote connectivity schemes and master plans between East Asia and Latin America, which can serve to create economic advantages, especially the cost effectiveness gained from saving logistical costs for land, maritime and air transport.

- Development and Environmental Challenges

11. We support our collective efforts to eradicate poverty in all its forms and dimensions, hunger and all forms of malnutrition and to transform shared challenges related to food, water, and energy security into opportunities for inclusive growth and sustainable development. We strongly foster cooperation for the sustainable use and integrated management of water resources. We, therefore, commit to work through closer partnership and joint action towards achieving sustainable development, including sustainable development for all. We welcome the adoption of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in September 2015, which builds on the basis of the Millennium Development Goals, aims to achieve sustainable development in its three dimensions – economic, social and environmental – in a balanced and integrated manner, seeks to address unfinished business, and contributes to end all forms of poverty.
12. We welcome the entry into force of the Paris Agreement in November 2016, a historic milestone for the global action on climate change that requires international cooperation by all countries with a view to accelerating the reduction of global greenhouse gas emissions. We reaffirm the commitment to implement the Paris Agreement reflecting equity and the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities, in the light of different national circumstances, in order to achieve the goal of holding the increase in the global average temperature to well below 2 degrees Celsius and pursuing efforts to limit the temperature increase to 1.5 degrees Celsius above pre-industrial levels. In addition, we will also continue robust international cooperation toward low greenhouse gas emission and climate-resilient development.
13. Along with our commitment to addressing climate change, we stress the role and the need to access to technology, innovation and capacity-building, which create new incentives and opportunities for the transfer of environmental technologies, in particular to developing countries in order to integrate them into regional and global value chains and promote development and productivity between the regions. We reaffirm that the efforts for the environmental protection are compatible with economic and social development. In this respect, we recognize the significant role of the South-South Cooperation and Triangular Cooperation (SSTC), in addition to the North-South cooperation, in allowing the promotion of clean technologies and renewable energy as well as expansion of access to energy services for people in remote areas.

- Security Challenges

14. Sharing the view that a lasting peace on the Korean Peninsula is of crucial importance for the peace and stability of Northeast Asia and beyond, we express our grave concern over the escalation of tensions on the Korean Peninsula, including the most recent launch by the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) of a ballistic missile on August 29, 2017 and its previous provocations. We strongly support the international community's common goal of achieving the complete, verifiable and irreversible denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula in a peaceful manner. In this regard, we reaffirm the importance of complying with relevant United Nations Security Council Resolutions. We also support the initiatives to improve inter-Korean relations towards establishing permanent peace on the Korean Peninsula as well as to relieve tension and resolve humanitarian issues and take note of the recent initiatives of the Republic of Korea.
15. We strongly condemn terrorism and violent extremism conducive to terrorism, in all forms and manifestations, which constitutes one of the most serious threats to international peace and security. We also reaffirm that terrorism and violent extremism as and when conducive to terrorism cannot and should not be associated with any religion, nationality, civilization or ethnic group. We reaffirm our solidarity and resolve to continue to strengthen international coordination and cooperation with transparency and equality in order to prevent and counter terrorism and violent extremism, based on the Charter of the United Nations and international law applicable, including humanitarian law, humanrights law and refugee law.

We reiterate that the moderation approach which emphasizes mutual respect and understanding, tolerance and dialogue can be utilized to counter all forms of extremism as well as resolve differences and conflicts peacefully towards ensuring stability and sustainable development.
16. We express our deep concerns over the current increase in harmful Information and Communications Technology (ICT) activities. We reaffirm the urgent need to uphold our commitment to an open, secure, stable, accessible and peaceful ICT environment. We note the key role played by the United Nations in developing norms. In this regard, we support the ongoing work by international dialogues to promote common understanding on existing and potential cyber threats and possible cooperative measures to address them. We also believe that strengthening international cooperation in ICT security, including confidence-building measures and capacity-building, is essential, in order to reduce the risk of conflict among nations and to contribute to bridging an existing digital divide, which can affect developing countries' ability to respond.

17. We express our deep concerns over the threat by corruption and transnational organized crimes in all its forms. We, therefore, encourage all countries to accede and implement the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and the Protocols thereto and the United Nations Convention against Corruption, as well as to share our knowledge and best practices to strengthen the fight against corruption and transnational organized crime.

We express our support for internal legal actions taken in accordance with the rules of international law to fight against corruption and organized crime in order to promote the welfare and economic and social development of its people.

18. We welcome the vision of United Nations Secretary-General Antonio Guterres on conflict prevention as the priority of the United Nations. We thus commit to the idea that sustaining peace should be a goal and a process to build a common vision of a society, ensuring that the needs of all segments of the population are taken into account, which encompasses activities aimed at preventing the outbreak, escalation, continuation and recurrence of conflict, addressing root causes, assisting parties to conflict to end hostilities, ensuring national reconciliation, and moving towards recovery, reconstruction and development emphasizing that sustaining peace is a shared task and responsibility that needs to be fulfilled by the Government and all other national stakeholders, and should flow through all three pillars of the United Nations engagement at all stages of conflict, and in all its dimensions, and needs sustained international attention and assistance.

- Other Major Challenges

19. We recognize that disasters have continued to cause significant impact on the economy, society and wellbeing of the people of East Asia and Latin America. We, therefore, reaffirm the significance of further enhancement of inter-regional cooperation in expanding the network of technical support, capacity-building, information-sharing and expertise on a broad and people-centered approach among FEALAC member countries as well as relevant international and regional institutions. We underline the significance of strengthening the resilience through building capacity in accordance with the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction 2015-2030 and the Sustainable Development Goals of the 2030 Agenda.

20. We reaffirm the universality, indivisibility, interdependence, and inter-relatedness of human rights and our commitment to the promotion, protection of human rights in accordance with the UN Charter, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, and other relevant international human rights instruments. We stress the importance of strengthening international efforts to promote and protect human rights including through sharing our best practices.
21. We acknowledge the multidimensional effects and challenges of Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated Fishing (IUUF). We encourage FEALAC member countries to intensify maritime cooperation to fight IUUF practices.
22. We stress our strong belief in multilateralism with the United Nations at its center and the commitment to uphold the principles of the United Nations Charter. We thus reaffirm the need for a comprehensive reform of the UN, including the Security Council.

Also, in recognition of the importance of maintaining and promoting peace, stability, security and freedom of navigation and over-flight, we affirm our strong commitment to the purposes and principles of the United Nations Charter and universally recognized principles of international law.

FEALAC – Renewed Dynamism

- Recent Progress

23. We acknowledge that FEALAC has played a valuable role in bringing together countries from two diverse regions for dialogue and cooperation. In order to fully leverage the unique benefit of FEALAC and create a better-working system, we welcome and embark on a number of initiatives.
24. We commend the works of the FEALAC Senior Officials' Meetings and FEALAC Working Group Meetings and endorse the recommendations made by these meetings. In particular, mindful of the San José Declaration, we endorse the New FEALAC Action Plan (annexed to this Declaration), which aims to put together ongoing and future efforts to ensure that they are fully recognized and take place within a structured framework. We recognize that the New FEALAC Action Plan is a living document that will continue to be reviewed and updated at every Senior Officials' Meeting to reflect the newest developments and to be reported to every FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting.

25. We welcome the launch of the FEALAC Troika system, whereby the Foreign Ministers of the previous, current, and incoming Regional Coordinators held the 1st FEALAC Troika Foreign Ministers' Meeting on the Sidelines of the 71st United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) on September 22, 2016. Given the current biennial Foreign Ministers' Meeting system, we focus on the merits of the Troika system, which is expected to ensure a greater continuity of FEALAC agenda and an effective implementation of mid- to long-term projects. In this regard, we recommend that the FEALAC Troika Foreign Ministers' Meeting continue to be held every year on the Sidelines of the UNGA under the leadership of current Regional Coordinators and endorse the Troika Working Modalities (annexed to this Declaration).
26. We recall the repeated recommendations and efforts at the previous Foreign Ministers' Meeting to establish a funding mechanism that would enable more enriching FEALAC- wide projects that promote inter-regional dialogue and understanding. In this context, we endorse the establishment of the FEALAC Fund in the form of a United Nations multi- donor trust fund under the partnership with the United Nations Economic Commission for Latin America (ECLAC) and the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP), details of which are included in the Senior Officials' Meeting Final Report. We expect this fund to ensure the broadest participation of FEALAC member countries and thereby bring tangible benefits to as many member countries as possible and develop a greater sense of ownership for each member country.

• Working Groups – More Active Leadership

27. We commend the contribution of the four Working Groups for the progress of FEALAC and encourage the incoming Working Group Co-Chairs to exercise more active leadership to ensure greater effectiveness of the Working Groups.

28. Regarding the Working Group on Socio-political Cooperation and Sustainable Development, we appreciate the leadership of the Co-chair China and Costa Rica, who will continue to co-chair the Working Group for the next term. Under the leadership of China and Costa Rica, 32 projects were completed or ongoing between 7th FMM and 8th FMM, which includes 24 national projects and 8 regional projects. Beyond 8th FMM, 5 national projects and 2 regional projects are currently planned to be implemented.
29. Regarding the Working Group on Trade, Investment, Tourism and MSMEs, we appreciate the leadership of the outgoing Co-chair Honduras, who will be succeeded by Argentina, and Indonesia, who will be succeeded by the Republic of Korea. Under the leadership of Honduras and Indonesia, 19 projects were completed or ongoing between 7th FMM and 8th FMM, which includes 16 national projects and 3 regional projects. Beyond 8th FMM, 6 national projects and 3 regional projects are currently planned to be implemented.
30. Regarding the Working Group on Culture, Youth, Gender, and Sports, we appreciate the leadership of the Co-chair Ecuador, who will continue to co-chair the working group, and Vietnam, who will be succeeded by Indonesia. Under the leadership of Ecuador and Vietnam, 30 projects were completed ongoing between 7th FMM and 8th FMM, which includes 23 national projects and 7 regional projects. Beyond 8th FMM, 16 national projects and 6 regional projects are currently planned to be implemented.
31. Regarding the Working Group on Science, Technology, Innovation, and Education, we appreciate the leadership of the outgoing Co-chair Colombia, who will be succeeded by Panama, and Japan, who will continue to co-chair the working group. Under the leadership of Colombia and Japan, 26 projects were implemented or ongoing between 7th FMM and 8th FMM, which includes 17 national projects and 9 regional projects. Beyond 8th FMM, 5 national projects and 13 regional projects are currently planned to be implemented.
32. We recommend the Working Group Co-Chairs to better coordinate national and regional projects to become more focused in a way that ensures greater impact and visibility, and avoids duplication. Furthermore, we call for the Working Group Co-Chairs to ensure that all projects undergo adequate evaluation and review and that best practices are shared.

- Way Ahead

33. We appreciate that national and regional projects have been an important motor for the progress of FEALAC and anticipate that FEALAC-wide projects, financed by the FEALAC Fund, will create synergy effect with the efforts carried out in the form of national and regional projects. We underscore the need to avoid duplication among projects and task the Senior Officials' Meeting to closely review all ongoing and future projects.

We recognize that the FEALAC Business Forum has a special value of promoting closer trade relations and enhancing business opportunities for the potential investors in the two regions, and that it serves as a good model of how national projects are to be planned and executed. In this regard, we take note of the 3rd FEALAC Business Forum, which was hosted by the Republic of Korea on June 30, 2017 under the theme of the Fourth Industrial Revolution, and encourage the future hosts of FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting to also hold FEALAC Business Forum.

34. We appreciate the efforts made by the Cyber Secretariat, which was established in 2011 in accordance with the recommendations at the 4th FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting, in managing FEALAC official website, facilitating communication within FEALAC, hosting Cyber Secretariat Workshops, and conducting FEALAC Project Review Survey, among others. We recommend the Cyber Secretariat to continue and reinforce its active role in working with the Working Group Co-Chairs for compiling and updating national and regional projects database, strengthening FEALAC overall mechanism, engaging in public relations activities to increase the visibility of FEALAC, and assisting host countries of FEALAC meetings, as appropriate, among others.
35. We recognize the need to promote the predictability and visibility of FEALAC events. In this regard, we recommend Regional Coordinators and Working Group Co-Chairs to work with the Cyber Secretariat to develop and update FEALAC Events Calendar. Furthermore, we acknowledge the need to improve online communication at the working-level. In this regard, we encourage the Cyber Secretariat to present a plan to facilitate and promote working-level communication channel.
36. Noting that eminent persons and experts can help develop ideas for inter-regional collaboration through FEALAC, we encourage the creation of a FEALAC Expert Group Pool. We expect to leverage the FEALAC Expert Group Pool for supporting various activities, including a potential FEALAC Vision Group II.

37. We recognize that there is a need to promote the early selection of Regional Coordinators to ensure a well-functioning collective leadership system and strongly encourage that incoming Regional Coordinators are selected by latest at the Senior Officials' Meeting held in the year when Foreign Ministers' Meeting is not held. In this context, we will continue to explore a number of options that would invigorate the current voluntary-based system.
38. We acknowledge the value of a more frequent interaction among appropriate leaderships as well as a whole-of-government approach for greater relevance of FEALAC. We encourage the FEALAC mechanism to produce more tangible and visible outcomes that would create the momentum for new initiatives, including the exploring of a FEALAC Special Summit, annual Foreign Ministers' Meeting, and more whole-of-government activities, among others, along the sidelines of global forums.
39. We call for strengthening cooperation with international organizations, think tanks, civil society and the private sector, among others, in East Asia and Latin America in order to intensify concerted efforts and effectively conduct projects in various realms. In this regard, we welcome the cooperation with ECLAC and ESCAP, whose Executive Secretaries* attended the 8th FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting and stressed their willingness to pursue new initiatives with FEALAC.

Closing

40. The next 9th FEALAC Foreign Ministers' Meeting will be held in 2019, and the Senior Officials' Meeting will be held in 2018, on a date to be decided by consensus.
41. We express our appreciation to the outgoing Regional Coordinators of FEALAC, the Republic of Korea and the Republic of Guatemala, and welcome the Lao People's Democratic Republic as the next Regional Coordinator for

* Due to unforeseen circumstances, for ECLAC the Deputy Executive Secretary participated on behalf of the Executive Secretary.

East Asia. As for the next Regional Coordinator for Latin America, the Republic of Guatemala will become the interim Regional Coordinator until the Latin American member countries select its next Regional Coordinator, at latest the Senior Officials' Meeting in 2018.
